100 Nazi Heavy Guns Pound Warsaw

1,000 CIVILIANS KILLED IN DAY; RAIDED 11 TIMES

Capital's Worst Loss of Long Siege.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 24 (AP).—A broadcast from beleagured Warsaw which was heard here this afternoon reported that more than 1,000 civilians had been killed there in the last 24 hours through "terrific shelling" by German heavy artillery.

[The German army high command, in a communique issued at 7:30 p. m. Saturday night in Berlin, asserted, however, that the Poles had been able to hold out in Warsaw and a few other isolated places "due exclusively to the willing forbearance of our troops and our consideration for the Polish civil population."]

The Warsaw radio alleged that more than 100 heavy guns had been pounding the surrounded capital ceaselessly since Saturday afternoon.

Leave Cellars; Killed.

The announcer asserted hundreds of Warsaw's citizens who ventured from cellars to go to church this morning were killed or wounded by Nazi shells.

"These have been the most terrible hours since the siege began," he said, "but the spirits of our troops and our citizens are undaunted. Despite the terrible losses of human lives, Warsaw will be defended. We will never give in."

The announcer again came on the air at 8:30 p. m. [1:30 p. m. Chicago time] declaring the city was bombarded by eleven air raids during the day and that German planes were dropping incendiary bombs on the city.

The announcer stated calmly "At this moment German heavy artillery is shelling the city. German planes heavily bombed the Little Jesus hospital only a few minutes ago."

Reports Church in Flames.

A description of the bombing of a church in which "many were killed while praying" followed.

"In a few minutes the church was in flames but the priest calmed the people by telling them final victory was sure," the speaker said. "The Germans resort to this bombing and shelling of the city because they are unable to withstand our counter-attacks, especially at night."

The announcement that the Kurjer Poranny, one of the city's newspapers, was still operating gave some indication that life held some semblance of order.

Speaks in English and French.

The announcer's first broadcast was in English but moments later he said in French "The opera house, National theater, and Polytechnic school are now on fire. The German artillery now is concentrating its fire on the center of the city."

Apparently relaying a description of the action as it was handed to him by messengers, he said at one point: "Planes are now dumping bombs on the workers' district as well as on museums, public buildings, artistic monuments."

German armored trucks captured by the Poles were being used to distribute food within the city, he declared.

"Seventeen days of siege show the heroism of the Polish soldier and the spirit and sacrifice of our civilians."

Capture British Tank Gun.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—While most Nazis denounced England for failure to lend active support to Poland, whose safety it guaranteed, today's accounts for the first time mention English war equipment. The mention is in a small item reporting on a "forced reconnoitering raid" by German infantry in the Warsaw suburb of Praga. During this raid the Germans established the absence of a solid Polish line of defense and captured the flag of a Polish regiment "as well as a new type anti-tank gun of British origin."

Move to Demarcation Line.

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (AP).—The German high command today said Ger-

Gaming 'Heat' Stymies Bandit Hunt by Police

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

SATURDAY NIGHT—Gayety and gambling at the Dev-Lin inn, Devon and Lincoln avenues, in Lincolnwood, a suburb of Chicago. Joseph Manaster, a poultry merchant, pockets winning of $675. On the way home he is held up, his winnings taken and he is shot in the head by men who trailed him from the Dev-Lin.

YESTERDAY—An operation is performed and a bullet is taken from Manaster's skull. Doctors say he will live.

LAST NIGHT—Gayety and gambling at the Dev-Lin inn. A reporter counts 76 automobiles parked outside. Early today the gayety is still at its height.

TODAY—The Cook county grand jury investigation of gambling will be resumed.

"The Heat" Alters Things.

That, in brief, is the chronology of a case recorded by the Rogers Park police yesterday. The investigation was handled gingerly because, as a policeman explained, "The heat's on." Police did not try to contact William Johnson, gambler, who is the reputed owner of the Dev-Lin.

Ordinarily, a detective said, Rogers Park policemen would go to the Dev-Lin and ask who might have seen Manaster pocket the $675 and leave the place. It was to be expected, he added, that Johnson would tell the callers: "Sure I'll help you get those fellows; they should know better than to rob anyone leaving my place."

Winners at Johnson's have always been assured of protection on the way home, it was recalled, and police surmised that the shooting might scare business away.

But the reporter who counted seventy cars outside the Dev-Lin last night didn't detect any signs that customers were scared. Gamblers merrily came and went.

Sheriff Can't Be Reached.

Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien and his staff of county highway men under Chief Lester Laird police that portion of Cook county outside the city limits of Chicago, including Lincolnwood. Neither O'Brien nor Laird could be reached by telephone yesterday or last night and at the Morton Grove station of the county police it was explained that, although they were willing enough to help their Rogers Park brethren capture the homicidal bandits who robbed Manaster, there was nothing they could do.

Johnson recently evaded service of a subpena issued in an effort to get him to testify at the federal grand jury investigation of the finances of his partner, William R. Skidmore, who was indicted for not reporting all his income. Police said that Johnson has been "under cover" ever since because of rumors of another federal grand jury investigation next month.

Shooting Witness Available.

Rogers Park police offered another witness besides Manaster who may be questioned. He is H. J. Harris, 1120 Pratt boulevard. Harris was with Manaster when his automobile was curbed early Sunday at California and North Shore avenues by the bandits.

"We know how much money you have," one of the bandits told Manaster, who is 32 years old and lives at 6741 Sheridan road.

Manaster made a quick move, as though reaching for a weapon. The shooting followed. A bullet plowed along his forehead. The bandits fled. Harris was able to get Manaster to the hospital where the Rogers Park police were notified.

GERMAN AIR MINES STRUNG ALONG FRONT TO DESTROY PLANES

ROME, Sept. 24.—An air mine, a balloon that blows up planes in mid-air, has been introduced by the Germans to warfare on the western front, an Italian correspondent reports. The air mine, he says, is exploded from the ground by electrical contact and the explosion is sufficient to annihilate any airplane within a radius of 20 times the diameter of the balloon.

The Germans, says the correspondent, have strung many of these balloons at various heights along the front, forming a mined sky. A French airplane was flying through one of the mined zones, he adds, when there was an explosion and the plane fell.

26 Missing as Sports Fishing Boat Capsizes

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 24 (AP).—Twenty-six persons were missing tonight after the 48 foot fishing boat Spray had been driven ashore near Point Magu, 30 miles northwest of here, in a heavy squall and capsized.

Where Boat Capsized.

At least five other persons were dead as rain and heavy winds swept southern California after a week of record high temperatures.

Two persons were rescued from the pleasure craft Spray—Abe Agins of Los Angeles and Miss Genevieve Force of Lynwood.

Caught in Pilot House

"We had had good luck fishing and were heading for shore when the squall struck us," Agins was quoted at a hospital.

"We were on the afterdeck and managed to jump clear when the ship capsized. Nearly everybody else was in the pilot house, which was shattered and swept away."

Coast Guard to Scene.

A coast guard boat was sent to the scene from San Pedro.

Raymond Bernhardt and Donald Rupert were drowned when the 37 foot cruiser Rarotonga was battered against the breakwater at San Pedro. Mrs. Dorothy Sterling, 35, died as the 33 foot cruiser Jolly Tom crashed to pieces in the jetty entrance at Newport harbor. Two youths were drowned in the undertow off Long Beach.

NEW DEAL PUTS ON PRESSURE IN EMBARGO FIGHT

Rushes Repeal Bill Despite Protests.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt's demand for revision of the neutrality act to permit the sale of munitions to nations engaged in war and for other purposes will be considered by the senate foreign relations committee tomorrow. By the middle of the week the administration bill is expected to reach the senate where it awaits a debate involving momentous consequences.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], dean of the senate and of the foreign relations committee, and many others believe the decision of this fateful issue will determine whether the United States is to enter or keep out of the European war.

Concerned About Lives.

Administration supporters are fighting against time in the neutrality act revision controversy. Concededly they have the votes to repeal the arms embargo and substitute a "cash and carry" system of selling munitions to belligerents, but they are gravely concerned about the stamina of their lines in the face of an overwhelmingly adverse reaction from the country.

They have been warned by Vice President John N. Garner that Mr. Roosevelt will have to win his battle in 30 days if he wins it at all.

Members of the senate thus far have received more than 1,000,000 letters and telegrams, and they are running more than 10 to 1 against any change in the neutrality law.

Plan Rules Pressure.

Administration leaders have manifested their concern and indicated an intention to apply strong arm methods in an effort to bring the issue to a decision before it is too late for them. Such methods would include a rigid application of the senate rules governing debate—permitting senators to yield only for a question, to speak not more than twice on the bill, or any amendment in the same "legislative" day, which may mean a month—convening the senate at 10 a. m. instead of noon and recessing at 10 p. m. instead of 5 p. m.

Opposition leaders are prepared for this strategy and have warned the administration supporters that they will "meet force with force." They have expressed their willingness voluntarily to keep the length of their speeches within reason and resort to no obstructionist tactics, provided the normal procedure of holding sessions and enforcing the rules is followed. Otherwise, they are prepared, they say, to be "tough."

Hold Rump Meetings.

Administration leaders gave the first indication of pressure tactics yesterday when 14 Democratic members of the foreign relations committee held a rump meeting to consider the draft of their bill. They held another rump session today. Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, a Democratic member who was not invited, presumably because he opposes repeal, commented ironically that the meeting was held to put into effect Mr. Roosevelt's plea for an "adjournment of politics."

Impartial surveys indicate that the administration at present can count upon 51 votes in the senate, two more than a majority. The opposition forces have 35 votes at present, and the other 10 senators are uncommitted.

Favors Land Powers.

President Roosevelt stated the crux of the issue in his message to the special session of congress on Thursday as the "repeal of the embargo and a return to international law." He said the embargo favored land powers [Germany] and discriminated against sea powers [the Anglo-French alliance] by denying to them the right to purchase munitions.

Opposition leaders insist that it is not unneutral to refuse to sell munitions to any belligerent, especially when the rule is adopted in advance of the war. To change the rule during the progress of the war, for the announced purpose of benefitting the group of belligerents controlling the seas, would be unneutral and inevitably would involve the United States in war, they contend.

Floyd Gibbons, Famous War Writer, Is Dead

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Floyd Gibbons, noted correspondent of The Chicago Tribune during the world war, died suddenly of a heart attack tonight in his Cherry Valley farm home near Stroudsburg, Pa. He was 52 years old.

Floyd Gibbons.

His death came as he was completing plans to return to active newspaper work on the new French - German front after a period of rest. He had been ailing recently, but had not considered his condition serious.

During the war and in the years following, Gibbons, for whom personal danger was part of the job, appeared wherever there was action. But it was in the big war of 1914-'18, and as a correspondent for The Tribune, that he became famous.

On Torpedoed Liner.

In 1917 he was ordered to England to cover the war front. He sailed on the Cunard liner Laconia, and was aboard it when it was torpedoed by a U-boat 150 miles off the coast of Ireland on Feb. 25, of that year. Twelve persons perished. Gibbons' story was a masterpiece of thrills, and brought home to America the perils of submarine warfare.

Gibbons did not get his stories behind the lines. He went where shells were bursting. His left eye was shot out, and his left arm drilled twice by German bullets at Chateau-Thierry in June, 1918. He was awarded the French and Italian Croix de Guerre with palm.

Covers Later Wars.

Gibbons, the Richard Harding Davis of the modern newspaper world, later covered Red Russia after the war; the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese troubles in 1932, and the Italo-Ethiopian war in 1935-'36.

In recent years he wrote magazine articles, popularized a series known as the "Headline Hunters," and engaged in radio and motion picture activities.

He was born in Washington, D. C. He joined The Tribune staff in 1912. His first war work was covering the Pancho-Villa Mexican disturbances in 1914 and 1916.

EUROPE'S STRIFE PERILS NATION, LEADERS WARN

250,000 in City; Rally Opens Today.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

The American Legion moved into Chicago yesterday, nearly a quarter of a million strong, to open its twenty-first national convention in the tensest atmosphere the world has known since the martial days of 1917-'18.

As these heroes of 22 years ago take possession of the city for a five day stay, Europe again is a battlefield.

Legionnaires assembled in the knowledge that the nation's attention is centered upon the convention that opens this morning, because the Legion is expected to take a stand upon the nation's neutrality course. It will be the first great American voice to make itself heard since the opening of Europe's war.

Leaders Want Peace.

That the Legion's leaders are opposed to any course that might involve America in war was indicated last night by speakers at two pre-convention gatherings. Speaking before a banquet in the Palmer House, Theodore Roosevelt, one of the Legion's founders, condemned wars of "benevolent meddling" and warned against schemes of collective security. Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri also addressed the banquet and voiced a plea for neutrality.

"I do not believe in wars of benevolent meddling," said Roosevelt. "They rarely accomplish their purpose and they cost the meddler dearly. As I do not believe in wars of benevolent meddling, I do not believe in benevolent meddling of any sort. One step leads to another. If you take the first you must take the last—and the last is war.

"Beware of being lured into any scheme for collective security. If we permit ourselves to join such a scheme we soon will find that we are furnishing the security and that the other nations are doing the collecting.

"There are those who say that they do not want to get into the war, but are afraid we will get into the war. There are others who say they hope we will not get into the war. Both are completely wrong. We cannot and we must not get into the war!"

Throng Hears Peace Pleas.

Before a vast crowd in Grant park, National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick and the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, D. C., voiced earnest pleas that this nation avoid foreign entanglements, no matter how its peoples' sympathies may lie.

On the surface, however, the throngs of delegates and visitors were joyous with the spirit that marks all great conventions. From early evening until nearly midnight they jammed loop streets. Carnival reigned.

Chicagoans by the thousands streamed downtown to see the Legionnaires. And the colorfully uniformed visitors streamed from their hotels to look at the Chicagoans.

Confetti Falls in Clouds.

Hotels, cafes, night clubs, and bars were crowded. Confetti fell in clouds. Thunderous explosions jarred the loop as one pounder guns were fired again and again. There were firecrackers and noisemakers of all kinds.

At the park the throng divided itself into two parts. The first, which extended from the band shell to within a short distance of the Field museum, heard Commander Chadwick, Bishop Freeman, and Mayor Kelly. The other thousands lined up along the lakefront to watch the fireworks display which was set off from the inner breakwater at the conclusion of the speaking.

"Mind Business," Says Bishop.

As the keynote of his address, Bishop Freeman took the motto, "Mind Your Own Business," which was inscribed upon the first coin minted in America.

"I know of no better slogan," he declared. "This is no time for flippant or soft speaking. It is a time for the best statesmanship of which we are capable.

"The President has affirmed that we must stay neutral. We gave of our men and our money in the last war. We are not Shylocks and we don't regret the money used to rebuild Europe. Further, we feel our kinship to Great Britain and we recognize our tie to France and we bid them both Godspeed.

"But we cannot become involved in a war that grows out of the fears and hatreds of peoples that are no longer democratic, of nations whose motivation is hate. Our neutrality laws must be so constructed, so devised, so unanimously approved by our people that we will be free from entanglements that might involve us in the war now raging in Europe."

American Example Urged.

Commander Chadwick declared emphatically that America should make itself an inspiration to those nations now beset by war.

"Rather than armed assault," he said, "it sometimes is better for the people of a nation that they have available to them the example of a nation that has progressed and found peace and prosperity as a free nation. This is better than that an attempt be made by sword and bayonet and bomb and gas to impose by force our ideals upon them.

"If the mad of world from which our fathers came elects to carry its existing civilization into a maelstrom of blood and again bring chaos, let us follow the faith of our fathers in a course of peace that in this hemisphere and that on this continent may preserve the vestige of civilization from which a war torn world may some day build anew."

Need of Prayer Stressed.

Mayor Kelly stressed the need of meditation and prayer. "But," he asserted, "we cannot say our prayers through teeth that grind with hatred for people in other lands. There is no false humility nor cringing fear in a nation praying for peace. May the Prince of Peace give us the strength and courage to walk the way we should."

The two principal gatherings of last night and the many committee meetings held throughout the city were preliminary to the convention itself, which will be opened formally at 9 a. m. today in the Coliseum, at 15th street and Michigan avenue.

After music by the Legion's champion band and bugle corps of 1939, Commander Chadwick will call to order the joint session of the Legion and its auxiliary organizations. The invocation will be by the national chaplain, the Rev. Jerome L. Fritsche, who later will conduct the memorial service for departed Legionnaires.

Kelly to Address Crowd.

Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Attorney General John E. Cassidy, in behalf of Gov. Horner; by Mayor Kelly; A. A. Sprague, president of the Legion convention corporation, and Edward Clamage, 1938-'39 commander of the Illinois Legion.

The session, which will include the report of Commander Chadwick and several ceremonials and presentations, will adjourn at 3 p. m.. Meanwhile, throughout the city there will be other meetings and activities. Contests among contending bands and drum corps will begin as early as 7 a. m.

The day will end with a parade of the 40 and 8 society, the fun making and honor body of the Legion. The parade will move northward in Michigan avenue from 8th street, beginning at 7 p. m. After this parade the participants will enter Medinah temple at Ohio street and Wabash avenue for their big gathering of the convention.

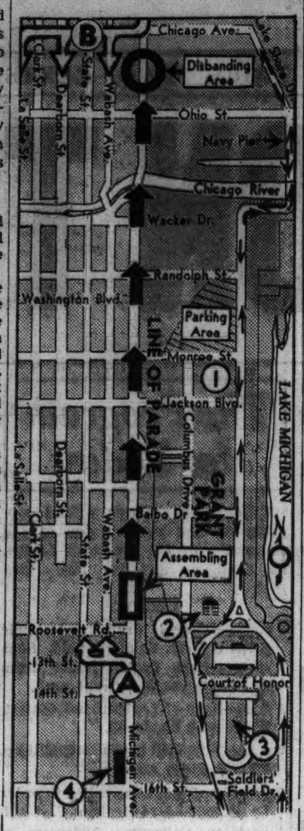
Ball Is Tonight.

Another important event tonight will be the military ball to be held at the Stevens hotel. Many high military officials, as well as political and civic leaders, will attend, according to Lionel G. Thorsness, chairman.

Final details will be ironed out today for the Legion parade to be held tomorrow. For 15 hours the parade will move southward in Michigan avenue, eastward in Balbo drive, and thence into Soldiers' field where the reviewing stand will be set up. The entire day will be given over to the parade, no other activities except necessary committee meetings being scheduled.

Legion officials last night still had not been informed definitely whether Gen. John J. Pershing will attend the convention. The last word from the general, who is in the east, was that he will attend if his health permits.

40 and 8 Parade



Route of tonight's 40 and 8 parade up Michigan avenue. The street will be blocked off and trafic will be detoured as indicated at A and B. Today's contests are planned as follows: 1. Junior and Sons of American Legion drum and bugle corps contests, Butler field. 2. Band contests, Grant park bandshell. 3. Drum and bugle corps contests, Soldiers' field. 4. Rifle drill teams and color guard contests, 131st infantry armory.

ROB SALESMAN AND DRIVER OF $30,000 IN GEMS

Sam H. Cohen, 50 years old, a New York jewelry salesman, was robbed of $30,000 worth of insured jewelry by two gunmen at Randolph and Ada streets yesterday.

Sam H. Cohen.

Cohen had been in Chicago for a week. Yesterday he started out in his car for Danville, Ill., with his colored chauffeur, Edward Hutchins of Brooklyn, N. Y. They left the boulevard system in search of a particular brand of gasoline and were at Randolph and Ada streets when the bandit car curbed them. The two robbers, both armed, jumped out, seized five jewel cases containing diamond solitaires, platinum, and gold wedding rings and gold watches, then sped away. Abe Chinsky, 3930 Wilcox street, saw the robbery and attempted to follow the bandits, but was outdistanced. He said the bandit car had no license plates.

MRS. EMILY AMPHAR DIES.

Mendota, Ill., Sept. 24 (Special).—Mrs. Emily Amphar, 63 years old, formerly of Mendota, died at her home at Peru yesterday. Funeral services will be held Monday at Peru with burial here.

FUNSTERS SEIZE CITY! AND THEIR NAME IS LEGION

Dignity Goes by the Board as Veterans Cut Up.

BY ROBERT CROMIE

Tens of thousands of Legionnaires yesterday turned the loop into a nightmarish tangle of foot and vehicular trafic. Street cars and buses inched along. Long lines of motorcars were halted by jaywalking pedestrians and volunteer trafic policemen who leaped from every curb.

By 9 p. m., on many loop streets, trafic was confined to a single narrow lane as overflow crowds from sidewalks milled in the street. And an hour or so later, when the clamor was beginning to slacken, it suddenly roused to new life as thousands streamed into the downtown area from Grant park, where a pre-convention meeting was held.

Sirens Lose Their Meaning.

A fire siren meant just another Legion delegation in one of the hundreds of replicas of French railroad trains. A trafic whistle more likely than not betokened only a joyous Legionnaire. Confetti was hurled, horns shrieked, song filled the air and there were dancing and pranks of all description, some indescribable. Women found it as much as their dignity was worth to pass most corners.

Paper bags, filled with water, came hurtling from hotel windows to crash on the heads or at the feet of angry or amused passersby. The past commander of the Greene county, N. Y., post was one of scores who amused themselves by squirting water at unsuspecting feminine legs.

Policemen Get Their Girls.

Two highway police, who escorted Legionnaires from Chattanooga, Tenn., left their motorcycles at the curb in front of the Hotel Sherman and lured the prettier passersby into posing for a nonexistent cameraman while seated on the front of the Chattanooga float.

What the posers didn't know—the crowd did—was that as soon as they were seated a current of electricity would make them leap squealing into the air.

Another bit of foolery which proved popular in a one sided sort of way entailed the use of a knotted cord drawn through the bottom of a tin can. Grasping one of these noisemakers in his hands, a Legionnaire would go up behind a passing woman and give the cord a jerk. There would be a loud noise and varied reactions.

Loop hotels, profiting by past experience, removed all furniture and rugs from lobbies and mezzanine floors for the duration of the convention.

Just Practicing for Tonight!

Bars found business rushing, and a number of unescorted women who seemed unfamiliar with the city were parading the side streets. Many Legionnaires brought their wives, and one, at least, left his early. He kissed her good-by, tenderly, and hurried off, shouting above the din of cannon and firecracker:

"I'll see you Thursday."

War Secretary to Address Rotary Club on Defenses

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring will address the Rotary club at its luncheon in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow. His subject will be "Defenses of the Americas." The secretary of war will attend the American Legion convention while he is in Chicago.

Legion Notes

David M. Dix of the Gary Legion post had some fun on Randolph street pretending to be a radio interviewer. The crowd about him was greatly diverted by the things gullible passersby spoke into Dix's dummy microphone. The earnest Chinese who spoke rapidly for more than a minute reported that he had said: "Hello, China. I hope you win war."

Naval veterans gathered on the lakefront yesterday afternoon to watch a race by three twelve-oared coast guard cutters, manned by crews from the Naval Reserves. Cups were awarded to the 25th, 24th and 23d divisions, which finished in the order given. The coast guard cutter Wilmette was open all day for inspection by the public at the naval armory at the foot of Randolph street.

Legion visitors sighed with relief after Chicago had returned to central standard time. Daylight saving time had confused many of them.

Twenty-one men who helped to keep more than 2,000,000 American soldiers in France informed of what was going on had a reunion last night in the La Salle hotel. They were members of the editorial and department staffs of the Stars and Stripes, A. E. F. weekly. Originally there were 315 men who got out the paper.

Five hundred former marines from many parts of the nation attended the marine reunions in the La Salle hotel last night. The meeting was sponsored by Chicago Marine post of the Legion. Mayor Bernard F. Dickman of St. Louis, Mo., praised the Legion for its Americanism.

Betsy Blodgett, said to be the only woman now living in Chicago who was a Salvation Army lassie in France during the world war, was back in her wartime uniform yesterday handing out doughnuts and coffee at the Army's doughnut hut in Grant park at Van Buren street.

Miss Dorothy Frooks of New York City, who enlisted as a chief yeoman in the naval reserve at the age of 17 and received the Woodrow Wilson medal for enlisting 30,000 men, arrived here yesterday as national commander of the Women World War Veterans.

Miss Jane Nelson, who was chosen the best woman singer in the 1939 Chicagoland Music Festival, sang with the George Dasch Symphony orchestra last night at the religious and patriotic service in Grant park. Miss Geraldine Morrissey of Davenport, Ia., who placed first in the Mississippi valley festival contest, also sang.

Twenty-five Gold Star mothers occupied seats in the reserved section in Grant park as guests of the Legion. Earlier they had been honored at a luncheon and taken on a tour of the city by Legion officers.

HENRY FORD ON WAY TO CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer, left Detroit, Mich., early today to attend the American Legion convention in Chicago. He will be the guest of National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick.

With Mr. Ford were Harry H. Bennett, his personnel director; Heinrich A. Pickert, Detroit police commissioner, and Wendell A. Lochbiler, police inspector and national commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

Legionnaires were speculating last night on whether or not Mr. Ford will address the convention. He publicly supported the arms embargo a few days ago.

GEN. C. P. SUMMERALL ARRIVES TO ATTEND 1ST DIVISION REUNION

Gen. Charles P. Summerall, retired chief of staff of the United States army, arrived from the east yesterday for the American Legion convention. He will attend several reunions, including that of the fighting 1st division, which he commanded in France during the world war.

Gen. Summerall said President Roosevelt has taken wise action in augmenting the nation's armed forces. He added he had no doubt that congress will provide funds for any further expansion which the present situation justifies. He said it is the unanimous sentiment of the country that the United States keep out of war.

CHADWICK URGES LEGION TO QUIT WORLD ALLIANCE

FIDAC Membership Peril to Peace, Women Told.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Stephen Chadwick, national commander of the American Legion, recommended yesterday that the Legion withdraw from the Federation Interalliee des Anciens Combattants, the international veterans' organization known as the FIDAC. Chadwick said withdrawal would serve to protect the peace of America and the safety of our national interests.

He made the recommendation in an address to 500 women members of the FIDAC auxiliary at a breakfast in the Stevens hotel. The proposal will be presented to the Legion convention this week for official action.

Addresses of two Legionnaires who followed Chadwick indicated that the recommendation would be opposed. They were Alvin M. Owsley of Denton, Tex., former national commander and former American minister to Rumania, and Jack Crowley of Rutland, Vt., American vice president-elect of the FIDAC. The FIDAC welds together 2,000,000 men and women of the world war allies. The Legion has been a member of it for nineteen years.

European War Cited.

"Since a state of war exists in Europe and since our president has asked us to observe with him the neutrality which he feels can preserve for America its peace," said Chadwick, "we should withdraw from further participation in this group. Our continued participation in times like this can only subject us to petitions of those of our comrades in arms of 1917-'18, whose minds and hearts are, necessarily, on the concern and safety of their own governments. They will be appealing to us from a background which however wholesome and forthright as it concerns them may not be conducive to the peace of America and the safety of our national interests.

"Our participation in FIDAC since its inception in 1920 has cost us $99,651.75. This year the international FIDAC congress scheduled to meet in Jugo-Slavia has been called off. The present European war is suggestive of new alliances and new and changed national interests on the part of some of those national groups who have heretofore composed the FIDAC congress."

Owsley Denounces Isolation.

Owsley denounced isolationism and said:

"There is no neutrality in America today. We still are bound to our comrades of the last struggle in their hope to maintain freedom and liberty. We must forget politics and look to the safety and good of our own country, but we must remember what safety means. We can no more wrap isolation around us now than we can disappear altogether from this hemisphere.

"Our country is so rich and so powerful that it would be a coveted prize to international gangsters. In our neutrality, I proclaim it is our duty to arm this neutrality so that no invader would dare to strike at us.

Crowley deplored the attitude which withdrawal from the FIDAC would voice toward its work and said:

"Simply because one man in the world has gone berserk, it does not seem to me that this work has been in vain. We must remember our comrades in Poland, in Czecho-Slovakia, and in Italy."

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Cincinnati, O., American vice president of the FIDAC auxiliary, presided at the program.

FRANCE ASSIGNS SECRET WAR JOB TO DR. CARREL

PARIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—France has called on Dr. Alexis Carrel, noted French scientist, to help her fight the war. The official journal announced today that Marc Rucart, minister of public health, has charged the scientist with an important mission of undisclosed nature. Dr. Carrel is known for his work with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on the artificial heart and for his researches at the Rockefeller institute in New York. The scientist, who is 66 years old, once was engaged in research at the University of Chicago. He served in the world war as a surgeon and was credited with having developed technique that saved many lives by eliminating the need for amputations. He also helped to develop the Carrel-Dakin treatment for wounds, which became standard.

BANDIT SLAYING SOLVES A DOZEN INDIANA HOLDUPS

More than a dozen recent holdups in northern Indiana are expected to be solved as the result of a gun battle in Calumet City Saturday night in which one bandit was shot and killed, another wounded, and a third captured. A police lieutenant and a bystander were also shot.

The fight occurred during an attempted robbery in the Charles H. Mayer beverage store at 506 State Line street, Calumet City. Two armed men entered the place. A third man remained outside as lookout. The bandits were interrupted by Lieut. Gene Iattoni and Policeman Benjamin Kulczyk. Bandits and police began firing simultaneously.

Lieut. Iattoni shot one of the men, then fell wounded himself. Policeman Kulczyk shot and held another. The lookout escaped temporarily. John Fusner, a customer in the store, was wounded in the cross fire. The slain bandit was identified as Frank Hussar, 32 years old, 13518 Avenue M, and the wounded robber as John Frjelich, 18, of 13431 Avenue M. The lookout caught later, was Anton Kaufman, 13537 Avenue M.

ROOSEVELT ENDS HOLIDAY; STARTS BACK TO CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Presidential Special, en Route to Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt left Hyde Park, N. Y., tonight to return to the capital to assume personal direction of his battle for revision of the neutrality law.

At 10:30 o'clock he drove to the village station, where a small crowd had gathered to bid him good-by. Detachments of secret service men and New York state troopers were on hand. The President's departure cut short his birthday visit with his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who is 85 years old.

The President spent a quiet day with his mother. He slept late and did not attend services in the village church, of which he is senior warden.

In the afternoon he drove his touring car about the estate, visiting his dream house on Dutchess hill. Friends and neighbors dropped in for afternoon calls. He dined with his mother.

ONE DIES, SIX HURT IN CRASH.

Nashua, Ia., Sept. 24 [Special].—Alfred Daddow, 40, Charles City, Ia., buttermaker, was killed last night in an auto collision near here. Six others were injured in the crash, including K. H. Rhode, Frederika, Ia., state high commission employe, driver of the other car.

AQUITANIA GUNS PROVOKE QUERIES ON BREMEN CASE

Let Armed British Liner Sail; Other Delayed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Treasury department officials were busy today explaining the permission granted to the British liner Aquitania, mounting two 12 pound guns, to sail from New York harbor yesterday, while the German luxury liner Bremen was not permitted to sail until Aug. 30 following a 39 hour detention and search which had disclosed that she carried no guns.

The Bremen was detained and searched for guns before the outbreak of the war between Germany and Great Britain, while the Aquitania was permitted to sail, armed with 12 pounders, with the two countries at war. The fate of the Bremen still is shrouded in mystery.

British Deny Ship's Capture.

The British admiralty has denied reports that she was captured by British warships. The German ambassador to Moscow, however, has charged that the British captured the Bremen "through the kindness of the United States" in detaining her for 39 hours at New York.

Great Britain declared war on Germany on Sept. 3. The Bremen would have been due at her home port on Sept. 3 if she had been permitted to sail after midnight on Aug. 29. Thus it is clear that if she was captured by a British warship the capture was made possible by the detention at New York; otherwise she might have reached home the day war was declared or earlier.

White House and state department officials have refused to comment on suggestions that the administration here requested the British to remain silent about the Bremen, lest the detention and search in New York harbor be denounced as an unneutral act, which might affect adversely the President's demand for revision of the neutrality law.

What President Said.

The explanation of the treasury department, in which the customs bureau is located, is that the 12 pound guns mounted by the Aquitania are defensive weapons, suitable only for defense against an enemy submarine attack. They recalled President Roosevelt's press conference statement on Aug. 29 that the Bremen was detained and searched to make certain that she was not carrying offensive weapons.

The United States would be liable for damages, the President said, if the Bremen should be permitted to sail with guns that could be used to raid the merchant shipping of another nation. Mr. Roosevelt did not explain the difference between an offensive and a defensive gun.

A 12 pound gun, according to naval officers, fires an explosive shell which would inflict great damage upon an unarmed merchant ship. The decks of the Aquitania were "cleared for action" when she sailed.

Not Fitted Out in U. S. Port.

Another explanation offered by treasury officials was that the Aquitania carried the 12 pounders when she arrived and was not fitted out with them in an American port. They recalled President Roosevelt's statement that the Bremen was detained and searched to ascertain whether she had been fitted out as a commerce raider in New York harbor.

This statement occasioned surprised comment at the time in New York shipping circles, where it was pointed out that the Bremen intended to sail immediately upon discharging her passengers and cargo and hardly had time to fit herself out as a commerce raider.

Hammer Bandit's Victim Dies from Fractured Skull

Thomas Cropley, 69 years old, manager of a poultry store at 6454 Cottage Grove avenue, died yesterday in the Woodlawn hospital as the result of a battle last Tuesday with a colored robber. The bandit struck him with a hammer, fracturing his skull. Cropley lived at 5483 Greenwood avenue.

CHURCH TEACHES ARTS TO MIRROR GOD'S WONDERS

St. James Methodists Try Social Service Gospel.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

To lead the way into a new consciousness of God through the avenues of the five arts—music, drama, literature, painting, and esthetic dancing—is the unique task which the St. James Methodist church, Ellis avenue at 46th street, has set for itself in Chicago's organized religious life.

This church, almost a cathedral in its Gothic beauty of stone and stained glass, has a membership of 1,500, including many leading citizens of Chicago. It is known throughout the country as one of Methodism's greatest churches, the "mother church of bishops." It carries on the traditional service and activities, but in addition has undertaken through the St. James Choir school to give a free education in the arts to any one regardless of age or church affiliation.

Meets Today's Challenge.

The immediate effect is to give the visitor to this church on Sunday morning the thrill of hearing some of the world's great music superbly rendered. Organ and human voices blend in anthem and choral of undying beauty. This and the healing sunlight, the chemistry of the grasses, the laws of the natural world, the goodness that unfolds in individuals—all are expressions of God, this church teaches. It meets today's challenge in a new pattern woven of threads that are eternal.

"Many people are talking about peace and doing nothing about it," says the Rev. Thomas M. Pender, minister. "We feel that we are actually doing something, because peace must start with the individual—and it is the individual in whom we are interested. We feel that we are offering the constituents of Chicago more than anything organized religion has yet devised."

It's Methodism in Action.

Peter Cartwright, pioneer preacher who established churches and colleges in this section when it was a wilderness, a stern prophet who, when he came to a dance hall, knelt on the floor and prayed until the dancers fled, probably would have difficulty recognizing this church with its great 12th century tower, its auditorium and parish house of 75 rooms, as Methodism in action. The music, the drama and the literature presented, however, are older than America; as old as the search for truth, beauty and goodness, the wisdom of all the prophets and seers. It is conceived here as the answer of the progressive church to the mind of today, that must meet war and science and find the answer.

The choir school is entering its third year with a registration of 215, and a faculty of 18 teaching 23 courses. These include sight singing and ear training, speech and play production, literary appreciation, drawing, painting, sculpture, folk dancing, private instruction in voice, piano, theory and composition of music, and choral organizations. The pupils range from juniors to adults. Ninety-seven per cent of the children participating in the worship services of the church, it is stated, retain active membership when they become adults.

All Students Render Service.

The only requirement of the choir school is that each student render a service to the church, singing if possible. If not singing it may be typewriter work or even janitor work. The choir has grown so large there is hardly room for it and new lofts may have to be built. Church attendance and membership have also increased, as many of the students have brought their parents and friends to the church.

"This is a new chapter in religion," says Mrs. Lavina R. Black, associate director of the school. "It is a new day for Christianity in which this church is literally removing its coat and going out in the highways and byways to help humanity rehabilitate itself and rise from black despair to healthy mental vistas heretofore unknown. I have seen grade school youngsters from homes that were not conducive to character building gain poise and happiness by learning to sing and play the piano in public. Adolescents whose parents were busily engaged in making a living have found associations and immeasurable happiness by this profitable use of leisure time. Middle-aged and elderly persons find new zest for living as they renew educational pursuits and participate in musical events."

Bethuel Gross, who came from Washburn college in Topeka, Kas., to study under the late Dean Peter Lutkin of the Northwestern university school of music, and who has four degrees in arts and music, is the organist-director of the choir school. His wife, Maurine Smith Gross, is the soprano soloist.

Mr. Gross, who started the choir school idea in the City church of Gary, Ind., in 1935, has hopes that it will develop into a national activity in churches.

"Opportunities for larger service," he added, "were found in St. James's church. The majority of registrants were young people who never had any church relation. Within six months they were joining the church and entering into other activities.

"The second year the curriculum was enlarged and the response was greater. Many adults who since childhood had harbored the desire to study music now found the opportunity. The fact that the choirs have been tripled and sing beautifully by virtue of this music training is incidental to the importance of showing to all antichurchmen that the church is ready and willing to include the gospel of social service in its program.

"The teaching of literature, drama, painting and sculpture, in addition to music, makes the choir school curriculum a far more potent force by which to bring nonchurch-minded persons to a realization of the spiritual values of beauty, truth and goodness. To know beauty, truth and goodness demands a desire for progressive human action, which leads man to the 'courts of the Almighty,' in common terminology, God."

Pastor Native of State.

Dr. Pender, the white-haired, eloquent minister of St. James Methodist church, was born in southern Illinois. He came here six years ago from Trenton, N. J. He has degrees from the University of Pittsburgh, Columbia, Drew university and Webster university. He is the son of a family of preachers that dates back to the time of John Wesley and he worked his way through college by preaching. He is a modern in his religious viewpoint, with a strong evangelical leaning. He is particularly interested in young people.

One of the most active members of the church is Dr. A. H. Andrews, a noted specialist, who was a member of the building committee that erected the present $650,000 structure in 1926. He was Sunday school superintendent for many years and now has been succeeded by Harold Slocum, a young electrical engineer.

St. James church is the outgrowth of the old Oakland and old St. James Methodist Episcopal churches. The Oakland church was begun in 1869; the original St. James in 1894.

Founders Families Active.

Two of the founders were the late Norman W. Harris, banker, and the late G. F. Swift, packer. The organ in the present church is a memorial to Mr. Swift and his wife. There is a Harris hall in the church. Albert W. Harris is chairman of the board of trustees. The other trustees are Dr. Andrews, Harry A. Wheeler, Roy O. West, C. H. Boothroyd, L. M. Greenlaw, R. Frank Newhall, George B. McKibben, and A. O. McLain.

Former pastors of the church who became bishops were Dr. Robert McIntyre, Dr. William A. Quayle, and Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell. Organizations of the church are the Sunday school, the Women's Guild, the Junior Guild, the Wesleyan Service Guild, the Women's Home Missionary society, the Women's Foreign Missionary society, the Epworth league, the Hi-league, the Quest club, the Athletic association, Sunday Evening Forum and Young People's council.

NAZIS TURN DOWN U-BOAT PASTOR'S OFFER TO ENLIST

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (AP).—Friends of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller today said the imprisoned pastor had volunteered from a concentration camp cell to resume his world war service as a submarine commander, but had been turned down by Nazi authorities.

The Rev. Martin Niemoeller.

Niemoeller made his first offer to the Nazi régime which has held him prisoner since July 1, 1937, after he challenged the government on theological grounds, claiming it had no right to interfere with the internal management or spiritual freedom of the church.

The fighting pastor, who achieved a distinguished record as a world war U-boat commander, is a leader of the nonconformist Confessional synod of the Lutheran church. Latest reports say he still is in solitary confinement in the concentration camp at Oranienburg-Sachsenhause, on Berlin's northern outskirts.

Better, 77, Tells Strange Tale of Kidnap Robbery

John Chicken, 77 years old, of Cleveland, O., wandered into the Woodlawn police station last night and told Sergt. Timothy O'Connor this story: On Sept. 12 he took his savings of several hundred dollars to the Hawthorne race track and ran them up to $1,165. Returning on a suburban train, he fell asleep between two strangers who, he believes, drugged him. They removed him from the train, held him prisoner in an abandoned house two nights, and took his money. Ashamed to return penniless to his lodgings at 510 South Dearborn street, Chicken has been sleeping in Jackson park.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 24 (AP).—A Divernon, Ill., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. Thomas, drowned in Lake Springfield today when a sudden squall upset their small motorboat. Three others, including a 13 year old daughter of the victims, were rescued.

Dutch Planes Chase Foreign Craft Toward German Town

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 24 (AP).—Netherlands aircraft briefly pursued a foreign plane sighted over Gelderland province southeast of Amsterdam this afternoon. The plane disappeared in the direction of Emmerik, a German town near Holland's frontier. The neutral Netherlands have forbidden flights over their country by any foreign planes, but there have been at least a dozen such violations since Sept. 3.

GERMANY WARNS BALKANS TO STAY OUT OF CONFLICT

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (AP).—Deutsche-Diplomatic-Politische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the foreign office, today said Poland's fate should dissipate any desire in the Balkans to desert neutrality for the "English front against Germany." The Balkans have the "best possibility" of keeping out of the present conflict, it said.

"Germany is ready to guard endangered interests everywhere with all its power," the commentary stated and added that the southeastern states had found a "natural relationship" with Germany in a practical exchange of goods.

NAZIS USED 5,000 PLANES TO BEAT POLAND: BIDDLE

Envoy Tells of Attack on Own Party.

PARIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—An estimate that the German army used 5,000 war planes to disrupt Polish production and communications in five days was made today by Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., American ambassador to Poland, upon his arrival here after a hazardous trek out of that country.

The ambassador sat on the floor over a map in the town residence of the American ambassador to France, William C. Bullitt, to explain his 15 day odyssey to Rumania from Warsaw.

He said his party was under fire from German planes at least three times.

Biddle declared German planes shuttled constantly from north to south and from southeast to northeast over Poland, "making the whole interior a front."

Bomb Plane Factories.

"In perhaps five days, bombing first engine and airplane factories and pilot schools, then railroads and general communications, they disrupted the country," he said. "At the same time they attempted to terrorize the civilian population."

The diplomatic corps and the Polish foreign office moved to five different towns and cities in the course of his fortnight's trip, he stated. In each case, he added, they were forced to move on.

The last figure he heard when he came out of Poland, Biddle said, was that the Poles had brought down about 300 German planes.

Arrives from Bucharest.

Arriving with the ambassador on the Simplon express from Bucharest today were his wife, his stepdaughter, Miss Peggy Schultz; his cousin, Miss Mary Willis McKenzie; North Winship, counselor of the Warsaw embassy, and Charles Muchinsky, embassy attaché and an assistant instructor at the University of Wisconsin. All participated in the trek from Warsaw.

"During our trip all the way out to Rumania we had to get out of the cars and hide sometimes as much as three times in one day," Biddle said. "We actually were under fire from planes three times."

JAPS HURL ARMY AGAINST CHINESE ON 70 MILE LINE

TOKIO, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—Taking advantage of the war in Europe, Japan hurled the might of her army against nearly one million Chinese troops today in an effort to strike a death blow in the 26-month-old conflict in China.

An army communique announced that a "large force" of Japanese assulted sixty divisions of Chinese, having an estimated strength of 950,000 men, in Kiangsi and Hunan provinces. The front is 70 miles long, with the heaviest fighting around Tungting lake south of the Yangtze river, Japanese advices said. The battle is the first major military operation in several months. The Japanese reported making steady progress.

[Chinese army reports received at Changsha, a main objective of the Japanese drive, reported stiff Chinese resistance and said that concerted Japanese air, land, and naval attacks were prevented from developing into a large scale drive southward from the Yangtze.]

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, Sept. 24.—Belgium's annual celebration of the nation's independence took place today with unusual fervor. CANADA IMPOSES DICTATORSHIP TO FIGHT A DICTATOR

All Liberties Restricted by Wartime Measures.

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Following the lead of England at war, Canada has wiped out civil liberties to such an extent that it is operating as a totalitarian state.

A survey of the drastic measures taken in Canada shows press and radio censorship, curtailment of free speech and assembly, regimentation of industry and business down to the smallest shopkeeper, steps leading to confiscation of property, price fixing, skyrocketing taxes. No longer is the Canadian's house his castle.

Canadians have accepted the very form of government they are fighting against in Germany. The dictators tell the people their traditional liberties will be restored to them when the war is ended.

Severe Penalties Provided.

These war measures have teeth in them. Heavy penalties are laid down for violation. Infractions in Canada may be punished by fines as high as $5,000 and prison terms as stiff as five years, or both. The firing squad takes care of treason or espionage.

Already the Canadian mounted police have rounded up a number of known Nazi sympathizers and communist agitators. Their fates are unknown.

The war measures act of 1914 is in effect in Canada. Gov. Gen. Lord Tweedsmuir and his council have virtually unlimited power in the name of the defense, order and welfare of the dominion. Democratic processses have been sidetracked for the duration of the war.

Canada today is governed by boards and censors. The most important of these are the wartime prices and trade board, foreign exchange control board, ship control board and war supply board. Canadians have no constitution safeguarding their rights and liberties as do citizens of the United States.

Rigid Censorship Imposed.

There is complete censorship of press, cable, radio, talking machine records and postal service. News of troop movements, of the manufacture and transport of munitions, and ship sailings is withheld from the public.

Prices of any "necessary of life" [defined as food, fuel and clothing] are regulated and controled. Preparations have started to license manufacturers, producers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers.

The government has the right to take possession of supplies and stores of materials. Already much lumber has been marked "government priority." Several varieties of wool suitable for uniforms have been withdrawn from the market.

Two large industrial users of sugar were "requested" to release 2,000,000 pounds of the commodity. Small merchants and housewives were threatened with extreme measures for hoarding.

Ship Sailings Regulated.

Canadian vessels exceeding 500 tons gross tonnage cannot move without a license granted by the minister of transport. All Canadian shipping is subject to orders from the minister of national defense.

The exchange board has power to take over all American securities owned by Canadians. Holdings of such securities in amounts of more than $1,000 must be declared immediately. Any one who wishes to purchase more than $100 in American money or securities must get a license to do so.

The government has the power to license imports and exports and is expected to do so on a quota basis before the war goes much farther. This may upset the reciprocal trade treaty with the United States.

A war surtax of 20 per cent of the total income tax already is payable. Corporation income taxes have been increased from 15 to 20 per cent. Excess profits are taxed upward in brackets to 60 per cent for war purposes.

Liquor Taxes Rise.

Imposts have been jumped on liquor, tobacco, tea and coffee. Even the soldier in the field will have to pay 2½ cents a pack more for cigarets. The tax on spirits has been boosted $3 a gallon and the tax on wines doubled.

Canada's sales tax has been extended to cover salted and smoked meats, canned fish, electricity and gas. The householder's bill for cooking and lighting is 8 per cent higher than in peace time.

Under its new powers the dominion government may delay a general election until the spring of 1941 if it deems it expedient.

The minister of justice has been given the authority to demand books of business firms, to search their property, or even wind up their affairs if necessary to prevent trade with Germany.

Banks have been required to report all deposits of German subjects. Business institutions are ordered to report their management or holding of any property on behalf of German companies or any one trading with Germany.

3 INSANE CONVICTS ESCAPE; 1 CAPTURED; 50 GUARDS HUNT 2

Chester, Ill., Sept. 24 [Special].—Three criminal-insane convicts escaped from the Illinois Security hospital today. One was recaptured. The two others are being sought by 50 armed guards.

The three, Thomas McGurk, Wayne E. McCaw, and Edward Rauschart, escaped while being taken to morning church services. As they marched through a tunnel from the cell block to the chapel with other prisoners they removed an iron grill from a window and fled.

Rauschart was nabbed in woods near by. It was the second escape for McGurk. He got away in May, 1932, but was recaptured soon afterward. He was sentenced as a robber under the habitual criminal law from Cook county. He is 41 years old. Rauschart was sentenced for robbery from Knox county, and McCaw for larceny from Lee county.

THE LEGION COMES OF AGE

By CALEB

SPEAK of "the Legion" to any literate American, and he visualizes a tremendous body of citizenry in this country which carries nearest its heart, and best embodies in its program, practice and record, the maintenance of a united United States.

That this expression is not idle, ingratiatory rhetoric, or the mere turning of a trim phrase at an expedient time, is borne out in the solidarity of purpose which the American Legion has preserved since its founding in 1919. In the constructive projects it has fostered . . . first, for the practical assistance of World War veterans, their families and children; and second, for the inculcation of sane patriotism throughout the commonwealth . . . the Legion has particularly expressed its alert awareness of civic obligation; of the pre-eminence of deeds over words; and the opportunity, combined with peril, which confronts its membership in the sector of inspired citizenship.

Inspired may seem an extravagant word—until one realizes how consistently the Legion has focused all its influence, like the resistless flame-spot of a sunglass, on loyalty to the flag which we salute, devotion to the country wherein we dwell, and the Constitutional form of government by which we live. And throughout the past generation of time which flowers, this year, in the Legion's literal "coming of age," that influence has been as stupendous as the need therefor has been acute. That Chicago is more than proud to play host to these "Knights of the Stars and Stripes," is evident in the city's overwhelming welcome.

Already the temples of many among the marching thousands, this September, are definitely grayer. Already a Junior Legion—young, keen, eager, worthy—is treading at their heels. Once again war casts its sinister shadow across the European scene. We profoundly hope it will never be necessary for these defenders of tomorrow to meet its challenge. . . . Truly, the presence and the objectives of the Legion were never more essential to, and reassuring in, the democratic scene!

As the parades pass—as the high-borne banners of Betsy Ross' first fashioning bare our heads—as the Legion drums once again quicken our pulses—let us privately re-pledge our own selves and services to the same cause the Legion has always espoused: a country of, by, and for, Americans—forevermore governed of, by, and for, its people!

RUSSIA CLOSES NEVA RIVER TO FOREIGN SHIPS

Hint War Danger in Use of Baltic Stream.

MOSCOW, Sept. 24 (AP).—Soviet Russia has barred foreign ships from the strategic River Neva, which flows into the Gulf of Finland, it was learned here tonight.

Arrow shows where Neva river flows into Gulf of Finland.

The river flows through the outskirts of Leningrad. The ban was understood to have included Finnish ships. An agreement signed between Russia and Finland in 1923 maintained the soviet's right to close the waterway to Finnish ships in case of "war danger."

Push Closer to Warsaw.

In Poland Russian troops pushed within less than 100 miles of Warsaw, occupying positions formerly held by the withdrawing German army. The mobilization period was extended indefinitly in the face of the international situation.

The return of wounded soviet troops to Moscow indicated the Poles were still putting up some resistance.

Tonight's general staff communique on the day's operations in Poland said that the Red army, "continuing to clear the territory" of White Russia and the western Ukraine, "in the course of liquidation of Polish troops southeast of the Brest-Litovsk fortress, disarmed and took prisoner more than 10,000 soldiers and officers."

Northeast of Warsaw, the communique said, the soviet troops captured "an infantry regiment and troops of a mechanized brigade."

The communique reported continuing advances westward toward the German-Russian demarcation line. Of the towns reported occupied the nearest to Warsaw was Bransk, 85 miles east and slightly north of the capital.

Polish Embassy Stays.

Members of the Polish embassy who had planned to leave several days ago, delayed their departure indefinitly. In this connection, it was understood the government was inquiring into the whereabouts and fate of its embassy staff in Warsaw. It is known, however, that the soviet ambassador to Poland is now in Moscow.

Deep interest was shown in diplomatic circles over the arrival of Karl Selter, Estonian minister of foreign affairs, and the anticipated arrival of Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister. Soviet sources said that the expansion of Russia's vast empire increased her influence over the Black sea, in the Balkans, and on the Baltic sea. Estonia was Russian territory before the world war.

Reports that Jugo-Slavia had moved to restore diplomatic relations with the soviet could not be confirmed.

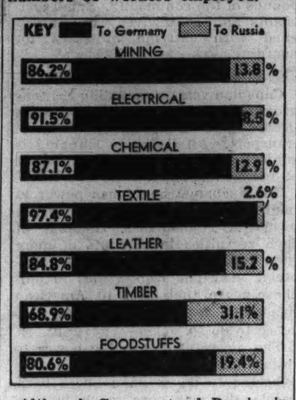
All Able Poles in France Called for Army Service

PARIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—Steps were taken today to build at once a Polish army in France to fight on the western front. Julius Lukasiewicz, Polish ambassador to Paris, ordered all Polish men 17 to 45 years old, whether residents or visitors in France, to report on Friday and to hold themselves ready for obligatory service in this army.

Split of Resources

How economic resources of Poland were divided between Germany and soviet Russia in tentative partition negotiated by army officers. The percentages are based on the numbers of workers employed.



Although Germany and Russia, in their partition of Poland, have about equally divided 150,000 square miles and some 32,000,000 inhabitants, Germany, it appeared last night, took much the richer stakes.

A table showing distribution of Polish industries gives the following percentages for German-held territory: mining, 86.2 per cent; electrotechnical, 91.5 per cent; chemicals, 87.1 per cent; textiles, 97.4 per cent; paper, 76.6 per cent; leather, 84.8 per cent; timber, 68.9 per cent; foodstuffs, 80.6 per cent; clothing, 87.1 per cent; toys, 99.1 per cent; printing and allied trades, 85.8 per cent; building trades, 90.5 per cent, and public works, 77.3 per cent.

Put in another way, it is as if Germany and Russia took over the United States, with Germany getting everything east of the Mississippi river, and Russia everything west.

100 HEAVY GUNS POUND WARSAW; 1,000 DIE IN A DAY

Capital's Worst Losses Since Siege Began.

man troops were moving "on schedule along the entire eastern front" toward the agreed demarcation line splitting conquered Poland between Germany and soviet Russia.

Nazi and soviet troops are scheduled to reach that line on Tuesday and today the Germans were withdrawing steadily before the soviet westward advance.

Germans formally gave up Brest-Litovsk, east of Warsaw, exchanging military honors with Red troops who took over the city which in 1918 was the scene of a humiliating peace imposed by Germany on the bolshevik régime.

Parade for Each Other.

A German infantry regiment with band playing paraded for the Red army commander today and a Red regiment returned the compliment for the German commander.

The first German communique said "naval forces renewed fire on Polish positions on the Hela peninsula," the thin arm of land extending into the Baltic where a remnant of Poland's armies is making a last stand.

A "steadily growing" number of Polish deserters from encircled Modlin and Praga, outside Warsaw, also was reported by Germany.

A later communique said that "in the vicinity of Tomaszow, Zamosc and Rudoc, scattered enemy detachments attempting to escape southward were forced to fight.

"Part of these enemy detachments were encircled southwest of Zamosc while others are traveling eastward where they will run into Russian troops."

RUSSIANS SPEED POLAND ON WAY TO BOLSHEVISM

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 24.—A liberal form of bolshevism is being inaugurated in the Polish provinces occupied by the soviet Russian army. Peasants have been forbidden to burn the estates of the great land owners.

Prince Radziwill of Rovno [Rowne], who owned an estate of 70,000 acres, now is working in the fields with his peasants, according to the soviet press which also reports that Poland's dreaded concentration camp, Bereza Kartushka, has been liquidated and the prisoners freed.

The unexpected action of the Red army in refusing to take Polish soldiers prisoners and instead disarming them and sending them home, is reported due to the lack of food and the poor functioning of the soviet quartermaster's corps.

Lithuania's Harvest Good.

This was confirmed by an official report published in Kaunas, Lithuania. The report said the soviet government had approached Lithuania with an offer to exchange coal, naphtha products, and other necessities for Lithuania's grain. Of the Baltic states only Lithuania had a good harvest this year.

After occupying Polish cities and towns the soviet forces organized among the local population "temporary administrations" of five or six members, most of whom were Russians, White Russians, or Ukrainians representing both the surviving middle class and the workers. In many towns Poles and Jews were invited to send delegates.

Political commissars attached to the Red army are organizing workmen guards in towns and peasant militia in villages. Up to now the GPU [secret police] has arrested only Polish landlords, policemen, army officers, and government officials.

Land Division Begins.

Stores, according to the Reds, are freely selling goods but the premises of the fleeing merchants have been nationalized.

Land has been nationalized and divided among the peasants, but preparations to form these holdings into kolhozis [coöperatives] is progressing rapidly.

Russian Orthodox churches have not yet been molested, but many Roman Catholic churches have been closed. Many priests fled toward the German side of the German-soviet demarcation line.

BLENDED SCOTCH WHISKY

Study the map of Scotland. The River Dee still flows quietly by the old Strathdee Distillery which supplies one of the highland malt whiskies that goes into the famous "gentle as a lamb" Old Angus. The Bruichladdich Distillery still sends along its quota of precious Islay malts.

Study the other points on the map. They represent other distilleries in the highlands which are among the finest plants in all Scotland.

All these distilleries, which contribute to the famous blend of Scotch whisky called Old Angus, are under the direction of Train & McIntyre, Ltd., of Glasgow, one of the oldest firms devoting themselves to the distilling of fine scotch whisky. Train & McIntyre is associated with National Distillers in bringing Old Angus Scotch to America.

This association with one of Scotland's finest distilling organizations enables National Distillers to control its own Scotch whisky sources.

The numerous advantages of this arrangement provide the best assurance against any interruption in the traditional care given to the distilling, aging and blending of this noble whisky.

COUNTERATTACK BY FRENCH ARMY PINS BACK NAZIS

Poilus Take Offensive on 60 Mile Front.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 25, Monday (AP).—Military dispatches from the western front reported today that French artillery had begun a direct bombardment of the main fortifications of the German Siegfried line.

Heavy French batteries, the dispatches said, were dropping large shells on the west wall casemates in an effort to blast the Germans from their positions. The Germans replied to the bombardment, but the French declared the Nazi guns were failing to make direct hits on French positions. Most of the artillery action was reported centered south of Saarbruecken and along the Lauter river.

PARIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—The French reported late tonight they had pinned German troops to their advance guard positions and had resumed the offensive themselves to prevent development of a Nazi thrust on the western front.

Semi-official French military sources said the French pressure was resumed on the 60 mile front between Saarbruecken and the Rhine river.

French planes roared out to protect French advance operations and fought back German scouters.

Before the French launched their attacks, they reported, they had repulsed attacks by battalions of German shock troops with machine guns and automatic rifles.

German Guns Roar.

Tonight's communique of the French staff follows:

"There was local activity of our observation planes at various points of the front. Reaction by enemy artillery was particularly strong in the region to the south of Deux Ponts [Zweibruecken, about six miles inside Germany]. A number of aerial combats took place with success for our pursuit planes in protecting our observation missions."

Activity during the night was reported by the morning communique:

"Numerous local attacks by the enemy on our advanced positions in the region of the Saar and north of Wissembourg were repulsed during the night."

[The German communique spoke thus of the western front: "In the west there was heavier artillery fire at certain points. Local enemy attacks were repulsed."]

30 Gun Nests to Mile.

The French penetration into German territory on virtually all parts of the front is reported to have reached German fortifications so strong that there are between 30 and 40 reinforced blockhouses and pillboxes dotting every square mile. The Germans are able to cover every foot of territory with machine gun fire that even speedy French tanks have not been able to brave with impunity.

On the 100 mile front between the Moselle and the Rhine rivers, Germany is believed by the French command to have about 30 divisions, or approximately 500,000 men, concentrated in addition to motorized divisions capable of striking with lightning speed. Advance guards who have been striking at the French positions number perhaps only 5,000 men, however.

Two Main Nazi Objectives.

Immediate objective of the German command on the west appeared to be to push the French from positions in the rich industrial Saar basin and Palatinate region of western Germany.

Military experts said it also was aimed at strengthening German positions for a possible offensive once Nazi chiefs become convinced Britain and France will fight the war regardless of German desires for peace now that Poland has been conquered.

Village Retaken by Tanks.

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 24 (AP).—French troops were reported tonight to have opened a coördinated series of powerful attacks between the eastern Saar region and the Vosges mountains.

Advices telling of heightened French activity reached Basel after German sources had said Nazi troops took positions on French soil on both sides of the Alsatian town of Wissembourg, a report which the French denied.

Reports from the front said the new French attacks followed heavy artillery preparation by the French forts in the Maginot line. Action was centered on Horn creek, between Hornbach and Zweibruecken.

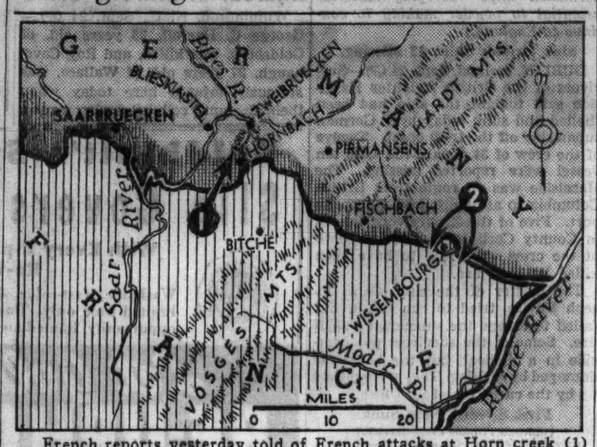
On the western wing, troops who had been working westward from the Blies river area toward Saarbruecken turned northward toward Blieskastel, where the main German Siegfried line begins. On the eastern wing, strong forces operating behind tanks were said to have recaptured the village of Schweix, which the Germans had twice wrested back from the French. Schweix is half a mile over the border in Germany.

Two Nazi Forts Menaced.

Still farther east the French appeared to be attempting to cut off the advanced Siegfried forts at Fischbach and Ludwigswinkel in the Vosges forests between Wissembourg and Bitche. The French apparently still were on the defensive against German pressure on Wissembourg.

Swiss were cheered by a report that Austrian troops had replaced Germans near Lake Constance. They believed this indicated that the Germans are not now considering a drive through Switzerland to attack the French.

Fighting on the Western Front



French reports yesterday told of French attacks at Horn creek (1) following heavy artillery preparation by Maginot line forts. German sources said Nazi forces took positions on French soil (2), a report which the French denied.

GAS RATION MAY CRIPPLE BRITISH AUTO INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A foretaste of what gasoline rationing is going to mean to Britain's auto industry—the third biggest in the country — was provided over the week-end by half empty streets and highways and idle garages.

Thin streams of auto trafic, most of it running for the last time on full tanks replenished on Friday, brought no business to garages. Filling stations which normally sell 1,500 to 2,000 gallons of gas on Sunday had no customers all day. The auto industry is facing a difficult winter.

Items Which Weren't Headlined in Recent War News

Honorary Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, world war ace credited with bringing down 72 enemy planes, was appointed temporary commodore of the royal Canadian air force.

The German high command put the grand total of Polish captives at more than 450,000. Eight hundred Polish planes, it was asserted, were destroyed or captured.

Italy announced the creation of a new air squadron with headquarters at Rome.

New dress regulations of the British army eliminate headgear with gold braided peaks of the type that prompted world war privates to nickname staff officers "brass hats." Khaki dress caps with plain visors are the new order.

The British national debt was estimated to be ten times what it was in 1914 when David Lloyd George had to prepare his first war budget.

The last decree signed by Armand Calinescu, slain Rumanian premier, provided for additional ceremonies at government funerals. Calinescu's own rites will be the first under the decree.

Twelve ships have brought nearly 20,000 Americans home from Europe in the last four weeks.

A Polish priest, Ignace Horecki, said 40 Roman Catholic theological students at Lwow were executed on Sept. 17 by the Ukrainians. The priest said he escaped on a bicycle.

Danish King, 69 Tomorrow, Ill with Heart Ailment

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 24 (AP).—King Christian of Denmark is ill with an ailing heart. A communique issued tonight said the strain of the recent critical weeks was responsible. The king will be 69 years old on Tuesday, and the customary birthday reception has been canceled.

NAZIS LOSE HOPE OF AVOIDING WAR ON FRENCH FRONT

Army Staff Begins Setting Up Bombproof Base.

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (AP).—The German high command today appeared convinced that a full fledged war with Great Britain and France was a certainty.

Nazis have expressed hope that the British and French would accept Germany's conquest of Poland as an accomplished fact and let matters rest there without pushing the conflict on the western front.

But it was reliably learned today that the German high command has taken a significant step by starting construction of a bombproof great army headquarters "somewhere in the west," apparently in preparation for prolonged warfare.

Built on a Mountain.

This information, said the German "G. H. Q." [Grosses Haupt Quartier] was being built on a mountain in such a manner as to be invulnerable to enemy bombs dropped from above.

The German high command seemed convinced Britain did not intend to start fighting in earnest until spring and that there was plenty of time, therefore, for army construction work.

It is known here that increasing numbers of the British expeditionary force are reaching France, and if German tactics on the eastern front [Poland] can be used as a standard, it may be expected that German bombers soon will strike at encampments of these British units.

Will Be Easy on French.

In addition, if the policy thus far followed is unchanged, it may be expected the French will be left unmolested, more or less, in the hope of weaning the French away from their British allies.

German army communiques reporting progress of the war have paid scant attention to the western front.

Today's first communique made no mention of it, and the second one only said: "In the west there was heavier artillery fire at certain points. Local enemy attacks were repulsed."

RUMANIA BURIES SLAIN PREMIER IN ELABORATE RITE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 24 (AP).—Armand Calinescu, Rumania's slain premier, was buried today amid scenes of national mourning. King Carol and Crown Prince Michael headed the military and political dignitaries who paid homage to the leader who was assassinated Thursday by students identified by officials as members of the outlawed pro-Nazi Iron Guard.

Services were held in the vaulted chambers of the Atheneum, after which the body was taken to Curtea de Arges, 70 miles away, and buried in the family estate. Airplanes roared overhead as the funeral procession moved slowly through crowded Bucharest streets to the railway station. The coffin was drawn by six black horses of soldiers who died protecting their country.

SUITOR IS SHOT; STEPFATHER OF GIRL IS HUNTED

Carroll Harrington had dinner last night at the home of his sweetheart, Miss Charlotte Williams, 20 years old. When he left the apartment, at 2842 Washington boulevard, a man waiting outside shot him in the right shoulder. Harrington staggered back inside. Miss Williams and her mother, Mrs. Olive Gilbert, sent him to the Washington Boulevard hospital. There he told police that the man who shot him was Miss Williams' stepfather, Joseph Gilbert.

The police began a search for Gilbert. Mrs. Gilbert told them she was estranged from him, but that he lived in the same building. She said that Harrington, who lives at 6327 South Artesian avenue, angered Gilbert some time ago by taking her part in a family quarrel. Harrington is 23 years old. Gilbert is 41. Both are WPA employés.

EVERY GERMAN NOW MUST HAVE 7 RATION CARDS

Red One Gets You Bread, Blue One Meat.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Starting tomorrow everybody in Germany, except the men at the front, will be equipped with a minimum of seven ration cards. Bookkeeping thus will become one of the major household duties.

A light blue card entitles a person to a ration of one pound of meat a week. A yellow card, for fats, promises slightly less than three ounces of butter, four ounces of margarine, and two ounces of cheese a week. The white sugar card is for a half pound of sugar and three ounces of jam.

Pink Is for Cereals.

The pink food card is for cereals, doled out in tiny portions, and for coffee substitutes made of rye and barley. Real coffee is not mentioned in the official rationing lists. Eggs, synthetic honey, tea, and dried legumes will be distributed from time to time on the strength of special government orders.

Green milk cards are for the sick, for children and for pregnant women who get what is labeled high grade milk. Skimmed milk, potatoes, and what vegetables and fruits there are at this time of year can be obtained without special cards.

Yellow soap cards take care of the country's washing requirements. Men above the age of 17 get a special male soap card with an attached slip for shaving soap. If boys sprout beards before they are 17 they must file a special application.

Red Card the Shocking One.

There is one card whose appearance is a shock and rather alarms the citizenry. It is the red bread card. Though the ration is comparatively large, five pounds per person per week, the red bread card revives the memory of war days.

An official of the food ministry has explained that this year's grain harvest is superlative and that the government again will take over dance halls and gymnasiums to be able to store it safely. Even without the crop of Bohemia and Moravia, the requirements for average consumption, which is estimated at from 25,000,000 to 26,000,000 tons, would be amply covered by the crop, which experts estimated at more than 27,000,000 tons in September.

By dividing the population into different groups and taking into consideration the special requirements of children and the hardest workers, every one's needs can be satisfied, it was said, "by rationing at a time when we still have enough rather than waiting until a deficit is noticeable."

Need Identification Cards.

Beside food cards, every German is required to equip himself with police identification cards. Police state the carrying of identification cards is "advisable" for Germans. Foreigners always must carry passports.

Nazis in various large German cities have been ordered to supervise the issuance of textile ration cards, which Germans now need before they can buy clothing, shoes or slippers. Purchase of such articles beyond the individual's immediate needs is prohibited.

If you are a truly respectable citizen, you become a kind of walking card file. As a car owner who uses his car you must have license, ration card for gasoline, and a state certificate that your driving is of value to the national cause. You also must carry proof that the ride on which you are engaged is truly for business purposes.

More Proof Required.

If you wear Nazi party bands or uniform you must carry proof in your pocket that you are entitled to this honor. Most men of military age carry their military passes with them and officers are equipped with papers showing that they are entitled to wear a uniform. To this you must add a flock of cards of professional guilds and party organizations.

Foreign journalists in Berlin, in addition to their credentials, carry a special pass for the only restaurant kept open after 1 a. m., enabling them to eat when work is done.

These same journalists will be permitted slightly more than two pounds of meat per week under a regulation which classifies them as "hard laborers." This announcement did not make the foreign correspondents a bit mad.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.
How can America keep out of war?

Where Answered.
In the lobby of the Stevens hotel, American Legion auxiliary headquarters.

The Answers.

Mrs. Sophia J. Lutz, Coral Gables, Fla., national executive committeewoman for the Legion auxiliary and candidate for vice president—America can keep out by adequate national defense and keeping sane. We should not let sentiment run away with good judgment.

Mrs. Harold Sinclair, East Orange, N. J., president of the East Orange unit of the auxiliary.—By minding her own business. I believe in the repeal of the neutrality act, for I think that would be more fair to both sides. I don't think that will keep us out, though.

Mrs. E. V. Millard, Lincoln, Neb.—Well, I suppose by strict neutrality, but I don't know whether that is possible. Talking to people, it seems that their sympathies are with England and France. One doesn't know whether voicing opinions at this time is a help to the situation or not.

Mrs. C. E. Wolfe, Dallas, Tex., past state vice president of the auxiliary.—Well, I think the American Legion—the standpoint it takes in this convention—will mean an awful lot to the people in general in the attitude they take. I think the way the American people think will keep us out of war.

Mrs. Charlotte Berles, 2943 North Kenneth avenue, secretary of the Cook county council, Legion auxiliary.—I think we should stay neutral and keep our ships at home. We should keep the home fires burning. I don't think the neutrality act should be changed.

BUTTER SHORTAGE HITS BRITAIN; TO RATION SUPPLIES

Fix Wartime Price at 32 Cents a Pound.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—A wartime shortage of butter in Britain was disclosed tonight by the British ministry of information which announced that "supplies of margarine of good quality are available as a substitute."

Effective today the retail price of all butter was fixed at one shilling and seven pence [currently nearly 32 cents] a pound in place of two prices for two different grades of butter established on Sept. 13.

"It is inevitable that in present circumstances butter supplies should be less than normal," the ministry explained.

Supplies Cut Off.

"Owing to the war, supplies from some continental countries are not arriving while those from other sources are temporarily reduced owing to dislocation of shipments.

"Withdrawals from stores have also been exceptionally heavy this month as a result of unusually large demands by traders and customers."

Britain's entire bulk stocks of butter were requisitioned on Sept. 22 by the ministry of food "to control the initial stages of distribution and ensure a fair sharing of the available stocks throughout the country in the interim period before rationing is introduced."

To Limit Sales.

Under this plan sales to dealers will be limited.

"Some retailers may find it difficult to serve their customers with their normal order," the ministry warned. "In war conditions, and particularly in the early months, consumers cannot expect to obtain their normal supplies of butter."

When food rationing starts, each consumer will receive "a definite amount of butter and margarine," the ministry said. "Rationing will ensure an adequate allowance to every one which should thereafter be maintained."

Lights and Trafic Signals Disabled by Wedding Guest

Street lights and trafic signals went out of order for several miles along Washington boulevard early today. Police said Anthony Bombacigno, 22 years old, 1128 South Whipple street, returning from a wedding reception, drove his automobile into a light pole at Washington boulevard and Mayfield avenue. The pole toppled over, breaking a power cable.

FINNS ANGERED BY NAZI SINKING OF TWO SHIPS

Say U-Boat Attacks Violate Neutrality.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 25, Monday (AP).—A supreme army command communique reported today a German submarine had sunk a British destroyer. No details of the sinking were given. The communique also reported eight French warplanes had been shot down on the western front.

HELSINFORS, Finland, Sept. 24 (AP).—Indignation swept Finland today in the wake of yesterday's sinking of two Finnish freighters. The newspaper Hufvudstadsbladet said the Finnish government had protested in Berlin against both attacks, which were termed here violations of Finland's neutrality.

[Forty-nine ships have been sunk so far in the war—29 British, one French, nine German and nine neutral.]

The 1,360 ton freighter Walma was sunk yesterday afternoon by two German submarines. The crew of 18, including three women, was saved. The vessel was bound for England with a cargo of wood pulp, from which comes cellulose, an important constituent of explosives. Finns said they believed wood pulp was not contraband.

Hits "Illegal Measures."

Earlier in the day the 2,262 ton Finnish freighter Martti-Ragnar, also loaded with wood pulp for England, was torpedoed and sunk off the Norwegian coast. All aboard were saved.

The newspaper Uusi Suomi in an editorial declared "it is imperative that such illegal measures end."

[In Berlin, officials expressed approval of the sinking of the Finnish vessels. One said the submarine commanders "would have committed nothing short of treason" had they permitted ships "carrying material essential to powder making to continue to England.]

Sink British Ship; 12 Missing.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Sept. 24 (AP).—Survivors of the British freighter Hazelside said tonight the ship had been shelled and sunk today by a German submarine off the Irish coast. Twelve of the crew of 34 aboard the 4,646 ton vessel were reported missing. The Hazelside was en route from British Columbia to an undisclosed European port. Five of the 22 survivors, landed in County Cork, were injured. Two of the crew were said to have been killed by shell fire.

The master of the ship, Capt. Joseph Davies, tried to run for it, but failed to escape the submarine's shell fire. Some of the survivors put overside in a lifeboat, but the boat was damaged by shelling. They were picked up by the cargo vessel St. Ultan.

First Swedish Ship Sunk.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 24.—Scandinavian timber circles, already alarmed by the sinking of two Finnish pulp steamers yesterday, were agitated further today when the Swedish steamer Gertrud Bratt, bound for England, was torpedoed off the Norwegian coast, in the Skagerak, by a German U-boat.

The crew of 18, which took to lifeboats, was saved by Norwegian cruisers. The Gertrud Bratt was the first Swedish ship to be sunk by U-boats.

Sharpening of the submarine warfare may have a serious effect on Norway, Sweden, and Finland, whose forest products play a big part in their national economy. The Swedish foreign office will take steps in Berlin to clarify the pulp question.

If pulp is to be considered a contraband, ships carrying this product probably will leave from northern harbors under the protection of British warships.

FIRE DAMAGES AWNING PLANT.

I invite all Legionnaires to enjoy the beer which leads all other bottled beers in sales by 2 to 1 in Chicago

WE want to show our welcome to you Legionnaires by making a special introductory offer on Chicago's favorite bottled beer while you are in town.

Beer retailers and taverns said, "That's a fine idea." So, here you are—a dozen Keglined* cans of Meister Bräu—ready-iced—delivered free to your "dug-out," whether it's a friend's home, or your own home.

And let me tell you—Meister Bräu is real old-time beer—the kind you had in the days before you went "over there." I make it by the same methods I learned 30 years ago from the Brewery's first brewmaster. I could save a lot of time and money by adding sugars or syrups. But I won't change our old-time, all-grain flavor. I must be right, for Chicago people buy twice as much Meister Bräu as any other bottled beer. That's what leading retailers report.

So it's only 99c for a dozen cans of Meister Bräu all this week—12 Keglined cans in the handy-pack case you carry anywhere, with two fingers. That's our contribution toward making this the best convention ever.

Every retailer and tavern in town is GHQ for ready-iced bargain-dozens of Meister Bräu. Have "Elmer" call any retailer in the Red Book. And, when you go home, take back a handy-pack case or two of Chicago's favorite beer.

Peter Hand's Extra Pale is champagne-like in brilliance and clarity—extra dry, extra pale. A delightful beer which is kind to waistlines. Enjoy it while in Chicago. And take a case to the folks at home. For this week only, per case of 12 cans . . .

BRITAIN REJECTS MUSSOLINI PLAN FOR ENDING WAR

Hitler Believed Ready to Make New Offer.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Diplomats here tonight continued to study Premier Mussolini's speech of yesterday in which he declared a general European war to be absurd since it was inconsistent on the part of Great Britain and France to declare war on Germany for attacking Poland and not to declare war on Russia for doing the same thing. Some sources believed the Duce's speech might be the preview of a new peace offer by Adolf Hitler.

The British ministry of information issued a statement expressing its inability to comprehend Mussolini's arguments. It said, "the suggestion that by not spreading the conflict further in view of the fait accompli [accomplished fact] Britain and France have compromised their moral justification for attempting to annul the Germain fait accompli is not understood here."

Resist Lawlessness.

The ministry said the British declaration of war on Germany was a direct consequence of the invasion of Poland but claimed the "invasion of Poland was itself but a further illustration of the lawlessness in international affairs which it is the principal purpose of this country to resist."

The statement referred to Premier Neville Chamberlain's declaration in the house of parliament last week that the object of the war is "to redeem Europe from the recurring fear of German aggression." The statement added:

"Whatever, therefore, may be the results of the Russian action in Poland, our purpose remains unaffected and will be prosecuted with unflinching determination."

[A Paris dispatch said: "As the war entered its fourth week without a major French-German engagement, the possibility was discussed that Germany would try to make peace on her own terms after cleaning up Poland. The British and French governments, however, have reiterated their determination to continue the fight against the Nazi regime.]

Thanks to Mussolini.

The full text of Mussolini's speech calling for a cessation of hostilities on the western front has not yet reached London through official channels, the ministry of information statement said.

"Official circles, however, understand and appreciate the sincerity of Mussolini's motives," the statement declared, "and the prime minister already has expressed his appreciation of what Mussolini attempted to do prior to the outbreak of the war to reach a solution."

Chamberlain is expected to answer Il Duce more fully when he makes his weekly war review in the house of commons on Tuesday.

Confers With Red Envoy.

Ivan Maisky, soviet ambassador to London, called at the foreign office last night to see Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax for the first time since the signing of the Russo-German pact. Diplomatic sources revealed that Maisky's visit was at the request of Halifax who sought information about the soviet government's ambitions. British circles profess perplexity over whether the Polish carve-up was prearranged between Russia and Germany or whether Moscow's action was aimed to halt the advance of the German armies toward the Black sea.

ITALY HINTS WAR IS IMMINENT IN MEDITERRANEAN

Urges Britain, France to Make Peace.

ROME, Sept. 24 (AP).—Fascist Italy, urging Europe to heed Premier Mussolini's appeal that a general war be called off, warned tonight against the frightful and perhaps world-wide slaughter which it said could be expected if there is no settlement now.

Authoritative commentators said Italy did not want to abandon her nonbelligerent rôle, but added that if events brought her into the conflict the consequences would be extremely grave.

"An Italian intervention would signify an immediate war upheaval in eastern Europe and the Mediterranean and from there to other continents," Virginio Gayda, often regarded as Il Duce's spokesman, wrote in his newspaper, La Voce d' Italia.

Gayda thus indicated he could envisage Italian entry into the war on Germany's side only, for of the belligerents only Great Britain and France have military establishments in the Mediterranean.

Meanwhile, preparations went forward to make Italy ready for any eventuality. Mussolini called a cabinet meeting for next Saturday to deal with internal matters.

It will be the first meeting of the cabinet since immediately after the outbreak of hostilities when the cabinet announced Italy was taking no military initiative—a stand reaffirmed by Mussolini yesterday.

As Germany announced the end of the military campaign in Poland, the full force of Italian propaganda was turned on to urge the peoples and governments of Europe to listen to Il Duce's warning against a general war.

The argument advanced by the press was the same as Mussolini's—that it was hopeless to wage a devastating war on the western front for the defense of Polish frontiers which no longer exist and can never be reestablished.

SHIP SURVIVORS TELL OF PLANE BOMBING U-BOAT

Undersea Craft Believed Sunk by Two Charges.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Two more ships arrived from Europe today, bringing more than 1,000 war zone refugees.

The Greek liner Nea Hellas, formerly the British Tuscania, docked with about 900 passengers from Mediterranean ports after an uneventful trip. The Nea Hellas carried F. J. Martin, an official of Pan American Airways, his wife, and their 6 year old son. Another passenger was Dr. George P. Gavaris of Chicago, Greek born, but now an American citizen.

The freighter American Farmer brought 133 passengers and 28 survivors of the British freighter Kafiristan, which was torpedoed 350 miles off Ireland eight days ago. Survivors told of the battle between a British bombing plane and the German submarine which torpedoed the Kafiristan.

Six in Lifeboat Drown.

The Kafiristan was bound from Cuba to Liverpool with sugar. Suddenly in the early afternoon a shell screamed across the freighter's bow—the first indication of the submarine. The freighter, capable of only nine knots, was forced to stop.

The crew raced to the lifeboats. The ship was still moving when the first boat went into the water. It was swamped by the swell and drifted far behind, drowning six men. The other 28 men got away in two lifeboats.

Capt. John Busby of the Kafiristan said the submarine then fired two torpedoes into the freighter, "breaking her back so that she disappeared in a few minutes."

Drops Two Bombs.

Soon the American Farmer came into sight and almost simultaneously the British bombing plane swooped down and sprayed the deck of the submarine with machine gun fire and then circled.

The plane came back and flew over the submarine and dropped a bomb. It circled around and dived again—to within 15 feet of the water—and dropped another bomb.

"We saw the bow of the sub lift up and the whole ship slid backwards into the water," said a passenger.

The skipper of the American Farmer said it was a 50-50 bet the submarine was destroyed.

FIND FISH DYING IN RIVER EAST OF DES PLAINES

Hundreds of fish lay dead yesterday along banks of the Des Plaines river, just east of the village of Des Plaines, evidently victims of the prolonged dry spell. Fishermen believed that the supply of oxygen is insufficient for fish, because the river is shrunken to almost a thread and is only six inches deep in places.

At Dempster street for a distance of several hundred yards more than 500 fish were counted during the day. They included carp, pickerel, and bullheads.

Famous Yachtsman calls Camels—"The best cigarette buy"
"THEY BURN LONGER, COOLER, AND THAT'S IMPORTANT"
SAYS JOHN S. DICKERSON, JR.

Copyright, 1939, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina
NATURALLY, a cigarette noted for its generous content of better tobacco gives you better cigarette value, doesn't it? Especially when that same brand smokes longer, slower—gives more smoking—than the average of all the other 15 brands compared in laboratory tests! Yes, there is such a cigarette. Its name is Camel. Full details are told at right—the results of recent searching tests by impartial scientists. These tests confirm what many smokers have long observed for themselves. For instance, "Jack" Dickerson (above, left), prominent in yachting circles of the Eastern seaboard, says: "Yacht racing is one hobby of mine and you might call Camel cigarettes another. I turned to Camels because they burn longer, smoke milder. They go farther—give extra smoking and always have a fresh, appealing flavor." You get real cigarette contentment with Camels. They are mellow and fragrant with the aroma of choice tobaccos in a matchless blend. Turn to Camels, the cigarette of costlier tobaccos that burns longer, giving more pleasure and more smoking.
Whatever price you pay per pack, it's important to remember this fact: By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to
5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

Cigarettes were compared recently . . . sixteen of the largest-selling brands . . . under the searching tests of impartial laboratory scientists. Findings were announced as follows:
1 CAMELS were found to contain more tobacco by weight than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.
2 Camels burned slower than any other brand tested—25% slower than the average time of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!
3 In the same tests, Camels hold their ash far longer than the average time for all the other brands.

BRITISH TROOPS MOVE UP; GET READY TO FIGHT

Concentrate Forces for First Action in France.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—The British expeditionary force was described officially today as preparing to go into action on the western front. Great Britain at the same time notified her trained civilian flyers to stand ready for a call to duty with the royal air force.

Announcement that the army was moving into position came in an eyewitness story of activities issued by the ministry of information. The government war correspondent, in the material issued by the ministry, said the British expeditionary force "is still in the stage of moving up to its positions and concentrating its forces preparatory to going into action."

First Official Notice.

This was the first British official indication that the forces actually were preparing to go into action. "Along the straight, tree bordered roads of France," the war correspondent said, "the army traffic moves along in a procession that is practically continuous."

In one area, "with music playing and the Union Jack flying, the troops made a triumphal entry," and "a whole village turned out."

Devoid of actual war news, the war reporter's story was confined to such "picturesque touches" as the following:

"The British soldiers may send no picture postcards home. A panoramic view of the harbor where they arrived or the towns through which they passed would give everything away.

Arms Get Tired Waving.

"Many of the drivers are getting to know the roads well and their arms grow tired with waving back to the children."

Some units of the British expeditionary force in France "already have been mistaken for Americans on account of their caps," the ministry of information announced in a second eye-witness story, taken by the censor from an official report "somewhere in France."

This statement was included in a series of "remarks" on the British army's new battle dress which gives officers and men virtually the same appearance.

Can't Mention Weather.

Much of the "eye witness" story was devoted to an explanation of why the military censors scrupulously blot out from soldiers' letters any mention of "the weather, the materials out of which the houses are built, any description of the landscape or local customs" which are "liable to be dangerous topics."

The notification for air force service went to men under 26 years of age who hold first rate licenses in the civil war guard—formed by the government in peace time to provide flying instructions for civilians. Four other classes including air guard flyers up to 40 were designated for a later call.

26 GIRL CHARGES RAPE; SUSPECT IS SEIZED IN ROOM

Hyman Furst, 35 years old, partner in a collection agency, was held by Summerdale police yesterday on the complaint of a night club 26 game girl who said Furst raped her in his room in the Commodore hotel, 5547 Kenmore avenue.

The girl, who recently came here from Minnesota, is 18 years old. She said she met Furst yesterday morning in the Winona Gardens, 5120 Broadway, where she has been employed. He asked her to come to his room, she told police, while he completed arrangements to give her a job in the collection agency, Furst & Furst, 105 West Madison street.

After the alleged attack the girl took a cab to the Summerdale station and returned to the hotel with Sergt. Wilbur Smith and his squad. Furst admitted them after they pounded on his door several minutes. He denied the charges.

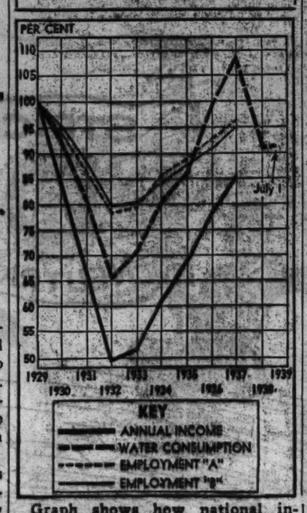
Trade Barometer



Graph shows how national income and employment parallel the consumption of water in Chicago for industrial purposes. The graph is based on a rating of 100 for each in 1929. The employment figures are drawn from two sources, (A) the national industrial conference board and (B) the American Federation of Labor. Although figures for income and employment for the last year are not available, the water consumption figures indicate a recent rise.

INDUSTRIAL RISE AND FALL PACED BY USE OF WATER

Consumption Gains in Good Times, Study Shows.

When business is good the city of Chicago sells more water. And when business slumps, water consumption slumps, too.

How the use of water follows the ups and downs of business was described yesterday by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, in a report by his department comparing the industrial consumption of water in Chicago for the last ten years with national income and annual employment figures. This information was requested by Mayor Kelly to determine the relationship between business and water consumption.

Readings from 512 Meters.

For the study the department of public works took readings from 512 industrial water meters. The industries selected were typical of the nation's business, Hewitt said, including brass and copper manufacturers, candy makers, chemical plants, foundries, glue works, paint makers, printing plants, and tanneries.

Water consumption, income, and employment in those industries in 1929 represented 100 per cent for purposes of the survey. Statistics on national income were obtained from the government bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and those on employment were obtained from the national industrial conference board and the American Federation of Labor.

"The graphs show that water consumption declines more precipitously than does employment and rises more sharply than employment," Hewitt said.

Trend Follows Income.

Water consumption in the 512 meters was 3,006,244,000 cubic feet in 1929. It declined to 1,860,919,000 cubic feet in 1930. The national income in 1929 was estimated as $81,128,000,000 and decreased to $40,014,000,000 by 1932, or 49.32 per cent of the 1929 figure. Water consumption by that time had decreased to 65.51 per cent of the 1929 figure, according to Hewitt's graph.

Hewitt said that while his graph shows that water consumption went down in 1938, final figures on national income and employment are not available for that year, although business was generally less in 1938 than in 1937.

Water consumption registered on the 512 meters for the first six months of this year indicate a slight increase. Hewitt said this follows the general information that business has improved slightly.

Newark Chiropodist Killed When Private Plane Falls

Newark, N. J., Sept. 24 (AP).—Dr. Harold Keil, 30 years old, a Newark chiropodist, was killed today when a small private airplane crashed near the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks, a half mile north of Newark airport. The pilot, Woodrow Fields, 23, of nearby Hillside, was injured critically. Railway employés said the plane's motor went dead and the small ship stalled, nosed over and dived into an embankment.

OPEN JURY QUIZ TODAY ON WILL COUNTY FUNDS

The Will county grand jury is to be called into session today in Joliet to consider action concerning Conrad J. Wirth, former Will county treasurer, who is accused of having left a shortage of $104,966 in the treasury when he finished his term of office last December. The Will county board of supervisors had given Wirth until Sept. 22 to pay up.

In a letter to his successor, James C. Bell, Wirth declared that if given credit for bad checks he had taken in, I O U's given by employés for pay advances, money taken by subordinates, and other items, he would not owe the county anything. State's Attorney James E. Burke said that a civil suit now may be instituted as well as the proceedings before the grand jury.

EUROPEAN CURB BOON TO SCHOOLS, SAYS HUTCHINS

Ousted Teachers Flock to America.

The action of European dictators in suppressing academic freedom has reacted to the benefit of American education, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, observed yesterday in his annual report.

"The American position on academic freedom has brought to our universities men of great distinction whose race or whose views are held to disqualify them from carrying on the search for truth in other countries," said Hutchins. "It may turn out that Hitler and Mussolini will be the great builders of American universities.

"At the University of Chicago hardly a department from art to zoology has failed to benefit from the determined ignorance of the totalitarian régimes."

Deplores Decline in Funds.

President Hutchins deplored the continued decline in the rate of return on invested capital, as it affects the University of Chicago and other schools.

Endowment funds of the general budget at the university have increased nearly three million dollars in the last ten years, he said, but income will be smaller for the current academic year than in any since the depression began. The rate of return on endowment has dropped from 6.45 per cent to 3.96 per cent.

Student fees, which constituted 32 per cent of the general budget income in 1929, will make up 44 per cent this year.

Problem of Fees Cited.

"There are obvious limitations on a program of increasing student fees and obvious disadvantages in becoming dependent on them," said Hutchins. "Dependence on student fees, if carried far enough, may mean subservience to the whims of students and their parents. An endowed university is valuable to the extent to which it is free and independent.

"A university which must determine its policies in the light of what students are assumed to want, rather than what they should have, is much worse off than if it had to please a legislature."

Among gifts and gift offers noted in the report is an offer from the Rockefeller Foundation of $1,500,000 to endow a program of biological research. The university must raise $500,000 in cash or pledges by June 30, 1941, in order to obtain the endowment.

A singular sales plan departing radically from the orthodox methods commonly employed, was suggested by us to the manufacturer of an automobile accessory. By accepting the idea his advertising and selling effort almost doubled his business in less than a year.

LET'S HAVE THE REGULAR ORDER.

Great Britain and France in the war for democracy have canceled all elections. Representative democracy still preserves its parliamentary system but the people's lawmakers have already created above them a government by decree. Nearly all the business can be done by executive order. In theory, at least, the parliaments can restrain, modify, or remove the war dictatorships but in reality the supreme executive authority is so propped up by war sentiment that an objection to it would be termed disloyal.

Democratic freedom and individual rights have disappeared to an alarming extent in both countries. The people are said to have adjusted themselves cheerfully and uncomplainingly, accepting the statement that in war such repressive measures are necessary and that in peace time all will be restored. It is war, and in war people are told they must submit to the loss of things they chiefly cherish in peace.

The Nazis and Fascists concur with their enemies in holding that such repressions are required by war. They go farther and say that peace needs them quite as much if the nation is to be an ordered working system. Governments like to tell people what they are to do and they like to avoid the annoyance of answering criticism and meeting opposition. It is so much easier to enforce a government policy if it is not necessary to ask the consent of the governed. Rulers reluctantly give up powers which make it so easy for them to do precisely what they want to do.

The British and the French in suspending their elections have abandoned the method by which people require that their consent be given to the acts of their government. Without elections there can be no change in governmental authority and the people are reduced to an acceptance of whatever the government chooses to do. Here in the United States there is already a great deal of mock heroics about the united front and the adjournment of politics. These heroics are compounded in about equal part of sentimental nonsense and shrewd design.

Politics, frequently thought of as a tricky means by which opponents intrigue and maneuver for their own gain, is nevertheless the method by which a democratic people compose their government and conduct their public affairs in relation to their private lives. Politics in that sense is not adjourned in this country and if the people know what they are about it won't be. There is no party line division on the neutrality question. Democrats and Republicans have combined for and against Mr. Roosevelt's program.

There is no solemn hush falling upon the people or their representatives. That solemn hush would be brought about by people who want to suppress discussion and make opposition seem opprobrious. The controversy is over a matter of gravity. It is not easy to predict what may be the consequence of action congress might take. People can see some very serious possibilities. Because of this wise people will insist that their political methods be unimpaired by any sentimentalism about national solidarity and the need for all men to drop their differences of opinion. Americans are not ready to suspend their elections, muzzle their representatives, or keep their opinions to themselves.

TAX DELINQUENCY RISING.

Tax collections in Cook county this year have been somewhat disappointing. Sept. 1 was the penalty date for the second and final instalment of real estate taxes. On the penalty date last year just short of 78 per cent of the amount levied had been taken in. This year the corresponding figure was just under 75 per cent. We are 3 per cent behind last year's record which itself was far from good.

The total amount of real estate taxes billed this year was 147 million dollars. Last year it was 140 million dollars. The total of collections on the penalty date last year was slightly less than 109 million dollars and this year was slightly more than 110 million dollars. The real estate owners were asked to produce 7 million dollars more than a year ago but only a little more than a million dollars of additional revenue was actually obtained.

There is a lesson and a warning in these figures. They suggest strongly that the limit of real estate taxation in this community has been reached. A substantial increase in the tax bills produces a relatively negligible increase in tax receipts and an actual decline in the percentage of collections. The law of diminishing returns is evidently at work.

This county is suffering severely from tax delinquency. Because some people do not pay their taxes the burden has been redistributed among those who do pay, with the result that tax rates are rising. The good citizen is penalized and the citizen who doesn't accept his responsibility to the community is being rewarded.

The remedy is obvious. Public expenditures must be kept down. In addition, the pampering of tax delinquents must be halted. Unless both these steps are taken the time will come when rising rates and the manifest unfairness of the distribution of the tax load will lead to a widespread refusal to pay.

THE LEGION MEETS AGAIN.

The American Legion convenes here in Chicago this year with Europe once again in war. It can safely be predicted that this year's gathering will be a more serious one than any of its predecessors. There will be no lack of high spirits and high jinks, but in the back of nearly every delegate's head will be the question whether this time America will be a participant.

If the decision were left to the Legion, America, beyond all doubt, would stay out of the conflict. The men who served in the last war know how much it cost and have a pretty shrewd notion of how little we and the world gained from it. The slogans for which we went to war have been turned inside out. If men can learn from experience, the Legionnaires have learned that you cannot make the world democratic through war; you cannot preserve the rights of small nations through war; and you cannot dominate a peace conference by participating in war.

National Commander Stephen Chadwick intimated the other day that he was opposed to alteration of the neutrality laws to permit this country to send arms and ammunition abroad. He sensed that such a step was a step toward participation in war; more than that, he saw that the arms which this country can produce are needed for our own defense and cannot be spared for Europe. His attitude is shared by the rank and file of the organization which he heads. The men who fought the last war know how costly to them was the lack of preparation. Many of them were sent into the front lines ill-equipped for combat. Thousands of lives were lost in consequence.

The Legion convention this year will be watched with the closest attention by the country as a whole. What the Legionnaires will say from the floor and in their resolutions will be read attentively by congressmen in Washington. The expression of Legion sentiment may prove to be one of the most important influences determining the decision of congress on the arms embargo. It is to be hoped and expected that the Legion will be mindful of its responsibility.

AMERICA IN CHINA.

Mr. Archie Lochhead has resigned his position as director of the treasury's 2 billion dollar stabilization fund. It is reported that he will now join the Universal Trading corporation and later will become its president. This is the corporation which is buying trucks and other military supplies for China with 25 million dollars of the taxpayers' money advanced to China by our government's Export-Import bank.

Mr. Lochhead was regarded as one of the ablest men in the treasury. As the Export-Import bank is a creature of the administration, and as the Universal Trading corporation is a creature of the Export-Import bank, it seems altogether clear that if Mr. Lochhead does go to work for China it will be because the administration wanted him to do so.

The news about Mr. Lochhead follows by a few weeks the news that our government had persuaded [to use a polite word] the Keeshin trucking organization of Chicago to help the Chinese win their war by organizing their transport service for them. The Chinese are completing a road from British Burma and French Indo-China to supply their army from the south. The Japanese are preventing the Chinese from getting supplies from overseas through the China ports; the road offered a means of byparsing the blockade. The 25 million dollar credit was intended to enable the Chinese to buy trucks and the Keeshin organization was retained to make certain that the service would be operated with a maximum of efficiency.

The arrangements were made, of course, before the war in Europe began. It may have been reasonable at the time to assume that China could obtain ammunition and guns from England and France, but it is doubtful if they can spare any war materials now, or the ships to carry them.

It seems unlikely, also, that Russia will continue to supply the Chinese, now that Russia and Japan have come to an agreement. That will mean that any arms which the Chinese get from abroad will have to come from the United States or some other nonwarring nation with a well organized munitions industry, which is to say Belgium, Italy, or, perhaps, Sweden. Whether these countries will care to export arms in view of the European situation is doubtful.

Accordingly the citizens of this country have ample reason for wondering what the report of Mr. Lochhead's new appointment portends. If we are to become the arsenal for China, a great deal more than 25 million dollars will be required. Moreover, we now are alone in giving aid to China and there is little reason to expect that help at the present scale will prove of much value or effect, though it might serve to deprive our own army of much needed equipment. Perhaps Mr. Lochhead's mission will be to liquidate our participation in the Chinese war and perhaps it will be to get us in deeper. The question is one into which congress should inquire at the first opportunity.

BOOM IN MISSOURI HISTORY.

[Kansas City Star.]

The pioneer spirit has started a second growth in central Missouri with sprouting whiskers, resurrected costumes of any ancient period before 1910 and pageantry.

Marshall is celebrating its 100 years with impartial devotion to covered wagons and a modern airport. Late in the month Boonville will move into the spotlight with its own challenging crop of facial spinach to honor the spirit of Daniel Boone and make it an annual festival. Sunday, without benefit of crinoline, beaver hats, or facial decorations, Lexington officially received a bust of Maj. Gen. Sterling Price.

Missouri seems to be waking up to its history. The echoes of the ox wagon, the phantom moan of a river steamer, the report of a Kentucky rifle, and the dying cry of a wampus cat blend into the roar of airplane motors. All of which recognizes the simple fact that the past belongs to Missouri as well as the future.

The celebrations move along with unabashed community costuming and good fun. Perhaps they stir again the nostalgia of the motor car generation for the deliberate years before the railroads and the Yankees came roaring into the state to put life and ambitions on wheels.

But the celebrators are making a practical use of romance. An aroused Missouri will find that its history is one of its resources. The state is well on the way in an adventure of discovering itself. Marshall and Boonville are showing how it can be done. After all, it is the state that believes in itself that should convince the rest of the country.

BROTHERS OF HEALING.

The title, "Alexian Brothers," has been a distinctive part of the Chicago vocabulary for seventy-three years and yet we, who have written it hundreds of times in news items, were ignorant of its background until we talked, a few nights ago, with its Brother Silverius. For this is a small monastic order that goes quietly about its work of nursing the sick [men and boys], and its establishments in the United States are only five in number.

Brother Silverius told a story which links the large hospital at Belden and Racine avenues—a square block of buildings and gardens—with the early middle ages and the great European epidemic called the Black Death. In that era of terror certain humble, pious men in Brabant devoted themselves to duties for which no labor could be hired—burying the dead, caring for people who had gone insane from fright and grief. Their names are unknown, but no war has had greater heroes.

The successors of these medieval hygienists, none of whom were priests, carried on their religious vocation in informal organizations until 1469, when their house in Aix-la-Chapelle [Aachen in Germany] was recognized by the prince-bishop of Liège as a monastery under the rule of St. Augustine. That ancient building is still headquarters of the Alexian Brothers, who took their name from Saint Alexius Seville, a Roman of the fifth century.

A frame cottage at Dearborn avenue and Schiller street was the order's first home in Chicago [1866]. A fifty bed hospital between Franklin and Market streets, about 500 feet south of North avenue, was opened in 1869. This was destroyed in the great fire; was rebuilt and enlarged. On Oct. 4, 1896, the corner stone of the present institution was laid.

The Alexian Brothers hospital has been notable for its charity. For the first time in its history it is planning to give a public entertainment to raise funds, and we hope that the ticket buying for its party at the Stevens hotel on Oct. 14 will be open-handed.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

How fast the dead leaves fall!
When they have fluttered by
They heap against the wall,
So yellowed, sere and dry.

They huddle by the walk,
Or dance before the wind,
In tarantelles; they talk
In whispers, light and thinned.

They tell of far off spring;
Of youth, of life and love;
Of songbirds on the wing;
And young blue skies above.

They speak of frost and snow,
Yet do not dread to die;
For spring will come . . . they go
A-dancing down the sky.

Clara Edmunds-Hemingway.

A New Name for a Vacation.

One of our favorite lenitives is North Carolina after driving 1,750 miles in "the land of the sky": mountains—the Blue Ridge, the Smokies, plains, and artificial lakes; almost 200 varieties of sylva; chinaberry, mimosa, and crêpe myrtle; corn, cotton, and tobacco; "co'n likkah"; swank schoolhouses in every village, hamlet, and town; colleges galore, accented by de luxe Duke university in redolent Durham and mellow University of North Carolina in woodsy Chapel Hill; the Biltmore estate, like something out of Grimm's; sunsets from Sunset mountain; and—the way a certain Carolinian says the name of Billie.

Solving the Mystery of the Bremen.

Perhaps you, too, observed that excursion boat rolling north past the Navy pier. St. Joe, South Haven, Milwaukee? Nonsense! The excursion season is over. Recall the shape of her hull, the curve of her prow, the slant of her funnels, the amplitude of her middle, if that's what you call the waistline of a ship. Don't ask me the depth of the Illinois waterways or the soundings on the sand bar at Cape Girardeau. All things are possible nowadays. Just read the maritime news and think of the name of a German city in six letters of which the first is "B." A ship can be disguised, but an ancient patron of the old Graham & Morton Line cannot be deceived. Here, among the mists of rumor, is a clew of definite shape. Geoff.

Has Any One Seen a Chimney Sweep?

I am interested in getting movie records of the oddities of Chicago, and your column has given me many subjects. The umbrella man and the scissors grinder disappeared from the streets of my old home town years ago, but I've found them here. But I've been looking in vain for a chimney sweep.

Didn't Chicago ever have one of these oddities, with his top hat, rope, and chain wound around it, with his little half ladder, brush and lead ball, and big brass bell? Every year he would arrive in my home town about the first of August in full regalia. He would clean the chimneys and then disappear for another year. C. L. Frederick Jr.

Let's Gather Around the Gingko Tree.

Since you are looking for trees close to the loop, I'll give you a fine rare one. At the corner of Wabash and Ohio streets there is a gingko tree twenty feet tall. The gingko is the sole survivor of the "gymnosperms" which flourished in a remote geological era [the Mesozoic]. In the far east it is planted in temple gardens and considered sacred. Mabel S. Harris.

SKIN REACTIONS TO COSMETICS.

MILADY must have her stock of cosmetics. Every one admires the attractive, well-groomed woman who utilizes these aids with art and discretion. To take away such adjuncts would make this world a rather drab place. Agreed that they are needed, we should all be alert to those that irritate the skin.

Many a woman has had a disastrous adventure with some highly lauded product. The reason is that the preparation included something capable of giving rise to an inflammatory reaction—a dermatitis. A few will be innocuous only as long as exposure to the sun is not permitted, but let Old Sol get in his work and symptoms ensue. Now and then a substance wholesome to thousands will be poisonous to a few. Such persons are sensitive to certain constituents.

A dye may be objectionable and it is always wise, prior to having the hair, eyebrows, or lashes tinted, to test the epidermis. If no redness and puffing appear—well and good. On the other hand, if they do we may know that the article should be placed on the proscribed list. Those derived from vegetable sources—henna, walnut juice, etc., are safe, as a rule, but copper, silver, or lead salts may lead to trouble.

Many hair tonics, so-called, are potentially injurious. Some contain arsenic, others mercury. To any one of these chemicals the skin may object. Face powders and soaps usually are studied carefully in the process of production, hence little difficulty will be encountered except among those who are allergic to some one of the ingredients. Orris root, a common component of powders, may not exert the slightest influence on the user, but may take out its spite on some member of the family—the husband, perhaps.

The principal drawback of anti-perspiration solutions and hair removers is that they are prone to cause irritation. The former generally depend upon some salt of aluminum and frequent applications may cause an outbreak.

While most creams are safe, some of the bleaching varieties rely upon mercury or salicylic acid for their action. Not long ago a hospital patient who was in for a general checkup was unable to account for the bluish-gray discoloration of her face. Although the balance of her body was clear, the peculiar tinge of her cheeks, chin, and forehead was puzzling. A study of her blood showed no anemia and it was only after an analysis of her face cream—which disclosed the presence of mercury—that the explanation was forthcoming.

For many persons who have used one brand for a long period of time, some annoying experience may come suddenly. There are two possible clews. Either the formula has been changed—enough to bring on the manifestation—or the individual has lost her immunity.

Should inflammation be observed—with angry reddening of the outer layers of the cuticle, with swelling or the formation of tiny blisters—the use of the preparation should be stopped forthwith. The best application is a gauze dressing, soaked in one-half of 1 per cent solution of aluminum acetate. Ointments should not be employed at the outset, as they may dissolve the offending chemical and spread the rash. Later, when the eruption has subsided, a 2 per cent tar ointment may be applied.

One experience is usually enough to teach caution and manufacturers are as interested as their customers in avoiding difficulties. Before substituting a new type of makeup, first be sure that it does not embody elements to which you are sensitive. The tryout is simple. A bit of the cream or powder is placed upon gauze an inch square, which is attached to the inner surface of the forearm by means of adhesive. This is allowed to remain on for twenty-four hours. On removal, if no signs of susceptibility are observed, the compound is harmless to you. Many cosmeticians will make this experiment upon request.

DEPENDS ON THE INJURY.

D. B. G. writes: Three months ago my father had a cerebral thrombosis which resulted in paralysis on the right side. His face and speech are now normal and he is able to walk a little, but the progress in the arm is slow. We have been advised that the clot on the brain was a small one. Will he get well entirely? How long does it generally take?

REPLY.

With time, patience, exercise, and massage, slow improvement will be noted for a long period. Whether or not he will make a complete recovery depends upon the amount of brain injury.

IT IS VERY RARE.

A. C. writes: What is meant by gangrene in the mouth after having a tooth pulled? I just had all my teeth taken out and had no trouble. The dentist said I was lucky because he was afraid of gangrene. I am not a diabetic.

REPLY.

Gangrene means death of tissue due to lack of circulation. Following the extraction of teeth, it is very rare.

LIKE A SHADE OVER EYE.

B. G. writes: Does a cataract completely destroy the vision of an eye?

REPLY.

Cataracts may be likened to lowering a dark shade in front of the eyes. The lens becomes opaque. Removal of this structure is a safe surgical procedure in skilled hands. Thereafter, with proper glasses, vision is normal.

THE EMBARGO AND 1812.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The President's message to congress is in keeping with his policy of changing his policies and continually misstating the facts.

His statement that the war of 1812 was the result of an embargo act is certainly false. Historical records show that our first embargo act was adopted as a measure of retaliation against England's and France's interference with American shipping. This act was adopted in December, 1807, some months after the American frigate Chesapeake was attacked by the British ship Leopard. True, we declared an embargo in 1794 for a period of 60 days, but the records show that neither of the above was even an indirect cause of the war of 1812.

As for a national emergency, I am convinced that the only national emergency we have here in our country is in the White House. A. J. S.

DOLLING UP IN THE CAFE.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Yesterday in a loop cafeteria a woman sat opposite me who, after directing rings of smoke all over the place, opened her bag, brought out a mirror and all the implements with which to powder and paint and somehow adjust her coiffure. It was a most grotesque performance and conducted with a nonchalance scarcely understandable to a mere man.

This practice is not uncommon. It seems to have become a disease. Cannot the beauty parlor experts who instruct women in all these so-called beauty secrets, somehow be persuaded to go a step further and drop a diplomatic hint that such practices would be much more in order if performed in the privacy of the powder room? I am sure I voice the opinions of many to whom this practice has become obnoxious. J. E. G.

PUT CRIPPLES IN THE LEAD.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Can America stay out of war? She can if public sentiment asserts itself.

When the American Legion parades in Chicago why not let the disabled veterans of the atrocity of 1917 lead the parade? Cram the horrors of war down the throats of those so-called American patriots who would sell America short just for their own personal gains.

AN AMERICAN.

ANYTHING BUT NEUTRAL.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Why all the terrible agitation to preserve our neutrality? It is certainly not being neutral to penalize England and France because Germany can't come and get our goods. Any person with an ounce of decency would not want to help Germany at this time in preference to our former allies.

ERNEST MALTER.
1st Division, A. E. F.

FOR AMERICA ONLY.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—I am an American born of English parents who date back to the colonial early American history. Hence it can hardly be said I bear any pro-German heritage, but I am downright against our country aiding England or France in any form or manner.

A. STERKLE BROOKS.

WOULD PUT US IN THE WAR.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—Whether you like it or not, common decency and honesty compels me to say that I do not believe America should stand aside in this conflict. It is my belief that our place is alongside Canada and the other self-respecting nations that comprise the British empire.

Are we fair to ourselves in remaining as mere spectators of the conflict, no matter how loudly we cheer for the democracies? Does it not matter enough to us who wins? Are we willing that our own safety should be bought by the sacrifices of other peoples?

A new and unscrupulous Napoleon has arisen in Europe. Britain and France, the two great democracies, have planted themselves across his path to preserve not only their own freedom, but of all democratic peoples. Sooner or later I believe America will be there too.

NOT NEUTRAL IN THOUGHT.

FORT DEARBORN TABLET.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—I note a letter you recently printed regarding the tablet with the replica of Fort Dearborn. It is a splendid idea, and I am now writing a letter to the Historical society, as the tablet is stored in its basement. If I can get the management of the London Guarantee company to place this tablet on its original site I am sure it would be a nice thing to do. When W. M. Hoyt, my father, had it installed, it was his idea that it should permanently mark the site. If this cannot be arranged, the Historical society might place it in their rooms where it could be seen by all. I thank you for your interest in this.

N. LANDON HOYT.

CHERISHING COUNTRY'S INTERESTS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Thank God for Senators Borah, Vandenberg, Nye, Johnson, Walsh, and other conscientious statesmen and patriotic citizens who cherish the interests of our country only; who are sufficiently courageous to warn the people here of the danger of foreign entanglements. MRS. RUBY SENDRAM.

CALLS IT WITCH HUNTING.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Maybe the general public has not heard about "witch hunting" in Evanston and all should know about it. Evanstonians enjoy an economical cab service permitted by the legal authorities where drivers rent a cab for $4 a day and hope to take in $5. The police arrested a driver the other day for doing 38 miles an hour on an Evanston street and fined him $16 for his crime. This driver had just recovered from six years' illness, much of it spent in bed, and chose to work for 50 cents or $1 a day rather than seek charity. These circumstances were apparent to the judge. This case strikes me as the most inhuman "witch hunting" law enforcement, and I hope Evanston citizens will think about it when they go to church in a cab at the cost of a nickel or a dime. R. J. M.

WHERE SELF-INTEREST LIES.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Our self-interest and expediency lie in "cash and carry" neutrality enactment by congress. Such a law first of all is strictly within international law and what is of vital importance it will greatly help our industry and farmers and therefore very much reduce unemployment. As a matter of fact it will favorably react upon the life of every American citizen.

That Germany is very strong on land and weak on sea is not our affair!

MAURICE HEYMAN.

BREAD AND BULLETS.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt says that removal of the arms embargo will give work to the unemployed making bullets out of brass and cotton into guncotton; quite some idea for getting a breathing spell from the depression. Peace and poverty, bread and bullets.

Also he would like permission to set the zones for ships to travel in. Not looking for more power, just sort of taking it. H. M. S.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

(Beginning today the summary of events of 25 years ago will coincide, date for date, with the daily reports of the progress of the present war in Europe.)

Sept. 25, 1914.

VERDUN—Thousands were killed as the German army hurled itself again and again at the forts of Verdun. The allied losses also were heavy but the gaps in their lines were filled by replacements, enabling them to thrust back the Germans and seize Peronne after a fierce engagement.

BERLIN—Kaiser Wilhelm II. began carrying a luck piece, a fragment of a four leaf clover plucked at the scene of the Germans' great victory at Sedan in 1870 and presented at that time to old King William.

CRACOW, Russian Poland—The czar's army thrust the Austrian army back through this city, forcing the invaders to take refuge in the Cracow fortress.

TRUCK PARKING.

Chicago, Sept. 19 [Friend of the People].—Would you be kind enough to use your good offices to notify the proper authorities about trucks standing all night in the 6700s of our block? I have occasion to use this street several times during the week and late in the evening had to run when accosted by a man lurking behind one of these trucks in wait for a victim. M. J. L.

Officers assigned report that the three trucks complained of belong to trucking concerns, the operators of which were accosted. The men involved were all notified and warned to keep these trucks off the street at night. They were told that if the trucks were found on the street again they would receive a summons to appear in court. They all agreed to keep them off the street.

We will continue to keep this locality in mind and do our utmost to eliminate cause for further complaints.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

ESTATE HANDLING.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 19 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. Is there any way of closing a small estate without hiring an attorney?

2. Why is it necessary to have an attorney as well as an executor?

3. Would a bonding company have any effect on the attorney or [4] does the company only affect the executor?

E. L. G.

1. There is no law requiring the employment of an attorney. The necessity for employing him depends on whether the executor has sufficient capacity to handle the probate for himself.
2. See 1.
3. The bonding company can name the terms on which they are willing to sign the bond. Often they stipulate for joint control of a safety deposit box, which would mean that assets could not be taken out without their consent, and in this sense they could control both the executor and the attorney.

INCOME TAX QUIZ HITS GREENLEE'S CHANCE FOR JOB

Indiana Banker Is Backed for Revenue Post.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24 [Special].—Plans of Senators Sherman Minton and Frederick Van Nuys, Democrats, to give the job of collector of internal revenue for the district of Indiana to Pleas E. Greenlee of Shelbyville, former patronage secretary for Paul V. McNutt when the latter was governor, have been changed by recent events, it was learned here today.

A new name, that of William Storen of Scottsburg, now an Indianapolis banker and twice state treasurer, is being mentioned for the post. Storen is a compromise candidate acceptable to the McNutt-Townsend machine and also to Van Nuys. Minton, who is reported at odds with the McNutt group, also is willing to back Storen.

Behind Shifting Scenes.

Behind this shifting of political scenery lies a long trail of party intrigue and jealousy. Also important in it is an element that hitherto has been a deep mystery in Indiana. This concerns the findings of agents of the intelligence unit of the treasury department who have been investigating Greenlee.

The first break in a solid seven month push on behalf of Greenlee by both Minton and Van Nuys came recently when a report that was called "preliminary" was submitted to the treasury department by its agents. The senators then were informed that Greenlee virtually was eliminated from consideration for the job.

The so-called "preliminary report" was given to both senators in Washington several weeks ago but each refused to discuss the findings. Then came a cooling in their ardor in championing Greenlee. Finally, there seeped out rumors that Greenlee had failed to satisfy the investigators concerning the taxability of part of his income during the years he dispensed McNutt patronage.

Mystery Partly Clarified.

Much of the mystery was clarified today, however, when Greenlee in an interview in his office here discussed the situation with apparent frankness.

"It is true that federal treasury department agents have been investigating me," he said.

"I have not been able to find out what the agents reported about me. It is a fact, however, that they have been questioning me in recent weeks about $25,000 that they found in my bank account at Shelbyville.

"This money was not reported for income tax purpose and they have been asking me about it. I have repeatedly conferred with a Mr. Sullivan of the treasury department about this money and have told him the truth; namely that it was untaxable, in my opinion.

Pulled from Various Banks.

"That money was pulled out of various banks at various times and put in there at a time when many Indiana banks were failing. It represented part of the money left over from my campaign in 1936 for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"The money was contributed to my campaign funds by thousands of my friends. Most of these anonymous givers feared reprisals from the McNutt organization, which beat me for the nomination.

"Some of the money, about $5,000, came from the sale of insurance policies, and some of it from the sale of a newspaper at Michigan City.

"I have repeatedly asked if any charges have been brought against me and have been told that none has been brought. I have said that I was willing to explain about that money at the proper time. If it is taxable, I am willing to pay income tax on it, and have told Sullivan this."

Interested in 2 Per Cent Club.

Greenlee said treasury agents also were interested in his activity as secretary of the Hoosier Democratic club [the 2 per cent club]. The club got its name because it collected 2 per cent of the salaries of all job holders for the party fund. Greenlee said he organized the club and that there is nothing wrong with it and that complete books have been kept on every cent received by Bowman Elder, the treasurer.

Greenlee formerly was a member of the National Bituminous Coal commission at $10,000. The commission was abolished on July 1, by President Roosevelt as part of his departmental reorganization program.

At present the post of collector of internal revenue is held by Will H. Smith, an assistant secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson. Smith is unpopular because he has ignored the Democratic organization's patronage demands in choosing his subordinates.

According to reports current here today the chief objection to Greenlee's appointment originally was the fear by the McNutt-Townsend group that he would have an opportunity as collector to examine closely their income records.

CARL LAEMMLE, PIONEER MOVIE PRODUCER, DIES

Made the First Million Dollar Picture.

Beverly Hills, Cal., Sept. 24 (AP).—Carl Laemmle Sr., 72 years old, pioneer motion picture producer, died at his home today.

He had been ill for some time. Death resulted from a heart attack, which came as he lay in bed at his estate. He had two other attacks earlier in the day.

"Uncle Carl," as he was known in the Hollywood film colony, got his start in the movie world as a nickelodeon proprietor on Milwaukee avenue, near Ashland avenue, in Chicago, in 1906. Eventually he established Universal studios, largest in the industry.

Laemmle also introduced the star system to the screen and made the first million dollar picture, "Foolish Wives." He sold out his controling interest in Universal about three years ago and retired.

Workers Called Him Friend.

Stars, producers, directors, writers, and agents as well as studio carpenters and other craftsmen regarded Laemmle as their friend. A genial man, five feet tall, he was noted for his interest in the welfare of studio employés and players.

Laemmle was a native of Laupheim, Germany. He came to America in 1893 with $50 and secured a job as package wrapper in Chicago during the Columbian exposition of that year. Later he clerked in an Oshkosh, Wis., clothing store, became its manager, and saved $2,000.

With this nest egg he returned to Chicago, where he saw how public interest in motion pictures was developing. He determined to enter this field, and transformed a vacant store building into a 5 cent theater. There he began to exhibit the crude films then available.

Signs First Movie Star.

Laemmle started the star system in 1909 when he signed Florence Lawrence of the old Biograph company for the unheard of salary of $1,000 a week. In 1912, he merged the leading independent companies into Universal company, and two years later established the first Universal studio in an old brewery in Hollywood.

Not long afterward, Laemmle bought 230 acres in San Fernando valley just north of Hollywood and established Universal City. This incorporated studio town still is the largest film producing unit in the industry.

At his bedside when he died today was his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Bergerman. He leaves, besides Mrs. Bergerman, his son, Carl Jr., two brothers, Siegfried and Louis Laemmle, both of Los Angeles, and two grand children, Stanley Bergerman, 7 years old, and Carol Bergerman, 9. His wife died in 1918.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

WATCHMAN KILLED BY AUTO.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 24 [Special].—Fred W. Benker, 71, employed as a watchman on the Coolidge Jr. High school building project, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile while crossing the street in front of the school. Elmer Covert, 18, of East Moline, driver of the automobile, was freed by police after an investigation.

ONE KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS TRAIN IN A HEAVY FOG

Heavy fog blanketed suburban highways early today and led to several trafic accidents. One person was killed and a number of others hurt. The fatality victim was Stewart Powell, 23 years old, 1517 Shermer avenue, Northbrook, a landscape gardener.

Powell drove his automobile into the side of a moving freight train of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad at Dundee road in Northbrook. The signal lights were working, but Powell, who was driving slowly because of the fog, evidently did not notice them or the train. His companions, Miss Helen Arquilla, 19, of 1537 Shermer avenue, and Frank Rupart, 20, of 1517 Shermer avenue, both of Northbrook, were injured and taken to the Wheeling hospital.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stone, 81 years old, 4142 North McVickers avenue, was killed and her daughter was injured critically last night when they were struck by an automobile at North Cicero and Newport avenues. The daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, 47, of 5126 Newport avenue, was taken to Belmont hospital. The driver was Mrs. Elspeth Bashen, 50, of 1233 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park.

Peter Cordell Jr., 24 years old, of 1251 North Lockwood avenue, died yesterday in Swedish Covenant hospital. He was injured in an auto collision Sept. 14 at the Harlem avenue-Higgins road death corner.

Nels Stark, 55, of 4622 Erie street, died of injuries incurred Aug. 27 when he was struck by an automobile in Kilpatrick avenue near Erie street. The driver, William Walker, 4946 Division street, was charged with reckless driving.

James Knox, 34, colored, 1105 Roosevelt road, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding struck an elevated railway pillar at Lake street and Hoyne avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 614 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 475 were killed in Chicago, where 15,820 were injured in the same period.

You've hit your inner stride

....when you regain healthy per-i-stal-sis

Everything seems smooth-sailing ...you're alert, confident, at ease... when you hit your inner stride!

Your inner stride begins with a contracting...expanding motion within the intestines called per-i-stal-sis. This motion should be steady, easy, as effortless as swallowing. When it's thrown off-stride, you don't feel right. You're constipated, all tied up.

Then—to help clear the way for healthy peristalsis—you may need a gentle but thorough flushing-out. The kind you get with Eno!

Eno has fluid-action

Eno brings moisture from other parts of the body down to the intestines...where extra fluid is needed to flush away waste. It also exerts a mild stimulation. Eno's fluid-action relieves you quickly, easily. Now normal elimination has a chance. You can get back on stride!

An "alkalizer", too

Eno is also used to help neutralize excess stomach acids. You'll welcome its "alkalizing" effect. You'll like its sparkling, refreshing taste.

When next you're off-stride, remember Eno. Let its fluid-action help you hit your inner stride... the healthy stride of success. Buy Eno at any drug store.

The Gold Rush of '39 Means Costume Jewels

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sales records in the sensational fall costume jewelry showings are phenomenal. Everybody with cash to spend is buying a gold supply to hang around the neck, jangle from the wrist, or flash on the chest. Unfurred coats are fastened with huge pins or clips high on the left side. Stunning round pins skewered in the folds of a Scotch tartan decorate as well as anchor the lapel, an ascot, or accent the V of a neckline.

What you hang around your neck depends upon your ability to carry a sizable yoke and that's not any understatement. Chest protectors of golden glory, bibs rivaling the barbaric splendor of some savage neck chokers are shining resplendently on all the smartest of simple dark wool dresses these days. Bars, balls, concentric flexible strands, mesh, gold tassels long enough to measure four to five inches, bugle heads copied from granny's old time glories, filigree creations all are here, enjoying an unprecedented popularity.

If you crave tassels, you'll like the black velvet ones anchored in shimmering gold holders [these come in high colors, too, and have matching bracelets]. If you fancy leaves and acorns, most realistically copied in gold, if you like cascades of beads or ropes of beads, the present assortments should satisfy the gold digger appetites of any and all.

Black onyx with gold is fascinating in these costume pieces. Some are exceptionally luxurious in eye appeal with seed pearls for a subtle third grace note. Twin bracelets, long lockets on a thick chain and dangling earrings are matched in readiness for dark dress contrast for daytime.

Gold metl bracletes are wide and smartest clips are those that amuse: A savage head, swords, long quills, or feathers, a clip made of two gold tassels attached to a pin or clip, and so on. Join the 1939 gold rush before some pessimist talks of burying the stuff.

John H. Gardner Is Engaged to Michigan Girl

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a luncheon at home in Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Peter announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to John Hoyt Gardner, son of Mrs. Frank G. Gardner and the late Mr. Gardner of Highland Park.

About two dozen of Miss Peter's and Mr. Gardner's closest friends were present to wish them happiness. Miss Peter is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Peter of Lake Forest and visits here often. Mr. Gardner has been working in Detroit for the last year and lives in Grosse Pointe, where he met his fiancée.

No plans have been made for the wedding. Miss Peter attended Mount Holyoke college. Mr. Gardner is a fourth generation Chicagoan, being a great-grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Warren S. Bogue and of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hoyt. He attended Andover and Lake Forest academies and was graduated from Cornell university in 1934. His sister, Mrs. Dorothy Gardner, is one of the talented young artists who exhibit in the Chicago Junior league's annual shows.

Longmeadow Sets Hunter Trials for Oct. 29.

The Longmeadow, of which Clark J. Lawrence is the M. F. H., has set Sunday, Oct. 29, as the date for its hunter trials. The annual landowners' party will be given later in the season. The trials will be held near the new stables, west of Winnetka, into which the horses and hounds will be moved by the middle of next week. The huntsmen's cottage will not be ready until later.

The Mill Creek hunter trials are to be held next Sunday, Oct. 1, in Millburn. There will be eliminations in the morning, starting at 11 o'clock, and the real trials will start at 2:15. Luncheon will be served between 12:30 and 2 o'clock. The owners of the land over which the hunt rides and their families will be the guests of the hunt members, and others may buy luncheon at $1.10 apiece.

For the first time there will be general admission tickets sold at $1 each for adults and 50 cents for children. Parking space is $5 and one space includes four admission tickets. Maj. Edward M. Daniels of Fort Reno, Okla., will be the judge.

Several Prizes Offered for Mill Creek Trials.

Mrs. Orton Prime, who for two years has carried home to Oconomowoc trophies from the Mill Creek trials, has donated a prize for lightweight hunters this year.

The Hugh McBirney Johnstons have contributed a prize for the working lightweight hunters' class; Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker went together to give a prize for the middle and heavyweight jumper class, and the Edward H. Bennetts have donated a trophy for the working hunters of middle and heavy weight. The M. F. H., Prentice Porter, and Mrs. Porter are giving the hunt team trophy this year. The Du Page and the Longmeadow are sending teams to compete with the Mill Creek teams for this coveted prize.

Mrs. Charles H. Morse Jr. is in charge of a dinner-dance to be given Saturday night at the Onwentsia for the Mill Creek hunters and their friends. Pink coats will be in order, of course, and the ladies will be in their loveliest new evening gowns. Some hunts ask women to wear black or white to hunt balls, but the Mill Creek does not do this.

Arts Club Will Exhibit Masterpiece at Reopening.

Good news for Arts club members was the announcement received last Saturday to the reopening of the clubrooms next Monday with the first Chicago showing of the masterpiece "Guernica," by Pablo Picasso. The celebrated picture was first exhibited in the Spanish pavilion at the recent Paris exposition and is accompanied by 63 related studies and drawings, which will give artists, collectors, and the public an unusual and admirable opportunity to examine in the making a large and effective painting.

The exhibit will continue through Oct. 10. It is presented by the American Artists' congress for the benefit of the Spanish refugee relief campaign. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who is president of the smart little club in the south Wrigley building, won't be back from her summer home on Cape Cod in time for the opening tea. However, there never is a formal receiving line at the first party of the season.

Cleanliness Is Next to Style in the Loveliness of Gloves

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They're saying that you're going to feel terribly nude if you go about without gloves this fall. Our impression was that women usually did stock up on gloves as a feature of the fall assembling. But we hear that the hatless habit brought along the gloveless one, too.

So, if you must be gloved, as it seems you must, be beautifully glove-groomed. This cannot be accomplished without frequent washing or cleaning of gloves. Just because you choose dark gloves you still can't get away with infrequent cleanings. Gloves gather dirt and grime which gets onto your face, messes the light lining in your purse.

You know, you can establish a definite note for yourself just on glove grooming. We know one woman who is referred to by her acquaintances, as the best gloved one. A certain well known society reporter claims that her white gloves got her into the best circles.

Choose washable gloves for general wear, at least, and wash them at the very first sign of dinginess. If your gloves are made of washable leather, put them on and wash them as if you were washing your hands unless they are made of chamois or doeskin, which are best washed off the hands. Gentle squeezing in tepid soapsuds will dislodge soil and perspiration.

After several rinses in tepid water, swish the gloves around through clear, light suds and the leather will remain soft and pliable. Toweling to remove excess moisture is the next step. The gloves then are eased into shape and puffed up by blowing into the fingers. Dry indoors in the shade, gently kneading the leather at intervals while the drying goes on.

Gloves made of chamois, doeskin, or fabric, wash clean in a twinkling provided the washing is done as soon as they look wilted. Embedded soil is hard to remove and using the hand-scrubbing brush on them shortens their lives. For this type of glove, luxurious, lukewarm soapsuds are required for the washing and clear lukewarm water for the rinsing. Pat out the moisture with a towel to make the gloves dry more quickly.

Good Morning!

"Now THIS," said the gentleman next to me, who had wretchedly and, I regret to say NOT silently, endured the other movie on the double feature program, "is the sort of picture I like!"

Well, it's the brand that pleases most of us plain folks. A rousing "western" of the "Stage Coach" and "Cimarron" variety—[on a small scale] that essays to tell the story of Tombstone, Ariz., when that historic spot was an obstreperous pup, and succeeds in being a right peppy narration.

The piece is plumb full of action, shooting, hard living, and loving. And the players enter into their rôles with relish that arouses corresponding enthusiasm in the audience. When Randolph Scott says he aims to be the law in this here place, there is applause, spontaneous and protracted. . . . And when Doc [Killer] Halliday eases sneeringly into view, scaring all BUT Mr. Scott into mere shivering wraiths of themselves, why Cesar Romero gets HIS "hand," too. As for that naughty, naughty girl, Jerry—O, we ALL just loved her, e'en though we shouldn't. Better far I fear than we did Nancy Kelly, so pure and noble, as the GOOD WOMAN in "Killer's" life. . . .

The picture has a peppy start—and a dolorous finish, but shucks, you know no woman would grieve TOO long, with anything as boo koo as Randy Scott hovering around just awaitin' and awantin'. . . . SO—you leave the theater, happy.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Hudson

New York, Sept. 24.—The British Blue Book has reached out across the Atlantic to settle an issue of authenticity between J. P. Morgan and this department, on one of the big scoops of the war.

On Sept. 4, there appeared in this space, this item: "J. P. Morgan in a telephone call told his Wall street associates that England now is convinced that Herr Hitler is crazy as a loon. In the midst of the last conversations with the British ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, Hitler suddenly said: 'When this is over, I will withdraw from public life and become a great painter. I am a genius. I feel great paintings within me.' He became furious when Henderson steered the conversation back to peace."

A few days later, J. P. Morgan arrived at New York on the S. S. Queen Mary. Ship news reporters showed him the above clipping from my column. Mr. Morgan, for understandable reasons, denied the authenticity of the statement, denied he had said anything about Hitler.

Then, last Friday, England released the Blue Book, the historical summary of the events leading to war expressed in the confidential memoirs of Sir Nevile Henderson. The Blue Book revealed that on Aug. 25 Hitler, in requesting Sir Nevile to fly to England, said that "he was by nature an artist, and that once the Polish question was settled, he would settle down to paint." The Blue Book thus confirms my story.

Observation: In all the talk of movie studio retrenchment, you have yet to hear the celluloid moguls announce they've slashed their racing stables! . . . The Paul Gerrits expect Sir Stork on Jan. 1. . . . Jim Barton, in "Tobacco Road," hasn't spoken to four members of his cast since the Equity trial last winter. He plays scenes with them, but refuses to talk to 'em off stage. . . . Leon Janney and Wilma Francis haven't agreed on the wedding date. . . . Zasu Pitts seeing the world's fair with Lew Lehr, Fox Moxietone funny man. . . . Aside to Commander Chadwick: Please express my sincere regrets to the American Legionnaires as I had to be back on the coast tonight.

At "21," Bing Crosby sips some kümmel as an after dinner liqueur . . . He fails to notice the label on the bottle . . . "Made in Lwow, Poland."

Sophie Tucker a solid hit at the Versailles. Eight encores a session. . . . Bob Farrell of A. P. and Jean Weiss are looking up a preacher. . . . Universal's "All Quiet on the Western Front" is a smash hit in its reissued form. . . . Zanuck's "Hollywood Cavalcade" is first rate entertainment and the nostalgic flavor recommends it. But it cheats West Orange, N. J., of credit as the first home of the movies [Thomas Edison's workshop where Fred Ott first sneezed for the cameras] and it ignores Chicago, which served as a movie incubator. The Zanuck film picks up the movie industry in 1913 Edison projected his first film at West Orange, N. J., as long ago as 1896.

After four weeks in the east, your Hollywood sentinel is about to board the American airliner for the west coast. . . . Some thoughts on New York at the moment of farewell: The fountain display and the General Motors Futurama are the most exciting eye-jolters at the world fair. The G. M. engineers vision the car of 1960 with a top made of unbreakable glass. How about the sun glare? And in a collision I don't want to be under a glass roof, no, sir. . . . Best coffee in the city still is served at the automat. . . . The perisphere is gorgeous from outside, but small-timey inside despite the Kostelanetz musical score and the Kaltenborn diction. . . . The motorbuses with the comical sounding horns give the fair a gay note. . . . The Italian building, with steams of water gushing down the face of it, is tops in design. . . . The 200 foot parachute jump is the most interesting to watch in action. . . . Billy Rose's Aquacade is top as a show.

The city fathers will have to do something about the incredible trafic snarl in the city streets. The waste that is caused by this inability to handle trafic makes your senses stagger. The express highways point toward an eventual solution. . . . Best show I saw, of the musicals: "Streets of Paris," rendered gayer because of Abbott and Costello and Bobby Clark. . . . Best show, of the dramas, Tallulah Bankhead in "The Little Foxes." . . . Best show, of the comedies, Katharine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story." . . . Best food we've tasted: The steaks at Dinty Moore's; some swordfish we had at "21." . . . The prettiest girls, those you see on the Lexington avenue subway at rush hour. . . . Most attractive room in New York, the Hunting room at the Astor.

So now, au revoir as the American airliner spreads its wings and points toward the Rockies and Bagdad-on-the-Pacific.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek, a veterinary. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Tom Boldre defies death by riding his horse bareback up the slippery ancestral stairs. Chenerys is morigaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. When they reach the accident they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown in the hunting field and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the body of farmer Glover. He'd been shot through the head. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek, and Maj. Fitts all drove that way.

INSTALMENT XIII.

AT THE MURDER SCENE.

They fell silent. After a moment Alison said slowly, "I'd meant to ask you, Wynn. It was Tom's heart that gave way?"

"Old Blount said so," answered Wynn. "That's all I know."

Yet Colin had declared . . . no, best not to say it.

"Dr. Blount . . . yes. I met him at the hunt breakfast. Would you say he was good?"

"You mean Tom collapsed directly they got him home?"

"After his leg was set. It was horribly sudden. I'm told that one minute he was making light of the whole thing and begging for a whisky and soda. Padgett came back with it and found him gone, with the doctor moving heaven and earth to restore him. Just like that." A spasm of pain crossed Wynn's face.

Alison looked thoughtful. She was remembering Dr. Blount's breath, his watery eye. It was not for her, however, to raise doubts as to his competency. Now Tom was dead it could only distress.

The next afternoon, just as Wynn was sallying forth to give a riding lesson to the youngest Horrocks child—aged four—Chief Inspector Headcorn was announced.

"Wynn," cried Alison, excitedly, "it must be that friend of Colin's—don't you remember our telling you about him? And to think Scotland

Turning to Wynn he asked, "And did you know this farmer?"

Yard have sent him here. He must have come to get our story of finding Glover's body."

In trudged a heavily built man with a wart on his large nose. He blinked surprisedly at Alison and shook hands first with her, then with Wynn.

"I'd no idea," he said, "that you were the American lady. Well, well. This makes business a pleasure. Only a formality, my interviewing you and Miss Marchmont. Will you tell me about your discovery?"

Alison did most of the talking. "Pretty awful," she wound up. "I was specially upset because, you see, I'd met this poor man just recently, the first time I came down to Chenerys. He was very good about helping Dr. Ladbroke and me when our host, Mr. Boldre, met with a hunting mishap."

She looked uncomfortable. The inspector noted it and understood. Tactfully he said, "That would have been the late Mr. Thomas Boldre, wouldn't it?" Turning to Wynn he asked, "And did you know this farmer?"

"Only by sight," Wynn explained, adding that Glover had not long been one of the Chenerys tenants. She jammed her bowler on her curls. "Is there anything more I can tell you? Because if not, I shall have to cut off."

"Miss Young will do nicely for the few questions I may ask." Inspector Headcorn waited till he and Alison were alone and then suggested they stroll along together to the scene of the crime. "You might just show me from what angle you caught sight of the corpse."

They took the path between tall poplars which bisected the grounds and ended at the lane. Alison sighed happily as she fitted her steps to the long, measured stride.

"My, but this is a relief, inspector! I've been feeling so pent up since this happened. Wondering if I was the only person in the house who was afflicted with morbid tastes."

"You mean no one where you're visiting seems interested in this death?"

"Not a soul, unless it's the servants. Half a dozen people have dropped in yesterday and today. They say a casual word, and get straight on to the important topics."

"Such as——?"

"O, somebody's new Irish stallion; how the dry weather will affect flat-racing; who's dropped what on the Lincoln. Tell me, inspector, do you believe Glover was shot from a car?"

"O, so you've heard that, have you?" Headcorn's dull eye swiveled round on her.

"O, yes, it's the local belief! I myself don't see how the shots could have been fired through the opposite hedge. It's four feet thick and matted like a thatched roof. I suppose they must feel pretty sure about the car, or else they wouldn't have kept this lane blocked from trafic. Think you'll be able to get anything from the various tire prints?" She hoped her voice sounded sufficiently casual.

"I hope so. It's a bit of luck this lane is so little used—only, I understand, by persons who find it a convenient short cut. I shall get to work on the tracks presently. What, by the way, was your impression of Glover?"

"Glover! Just how did he strike me? Lazy, obliging, a cut above my idea of a common farmer. And yet too soft somehow. It's hard to explain. I don't quite know if I'd have trusted him; maybe I found him a shade too—well, ingratiating. You know? He spoke like an educated man, and he evidently read a good deal."

"H'm! Reader's Digest in bulk?"

"O, so you've spotted those, have you?" Alison laughed.

They entered the lane where the hedge terminated, some hundred yards westward from the opposite gulley. The inspector paused and blinked round.

"Just where," he asked, "did that minor accident to Mr. Tom Boldre occur?"

She pointed. "Why, just over there, by those trees. All that's Glover's ground."

"Let's wander along and look at it."

Surprised that he should waste time on anything so irrelevant, Alison clambered over the low wall and led him to the stony edge of the field where Tom had come down, describing the circumstances as they went. The inspector sleepily surveyed the spot, taking in the transverse wall on the one side, the dark, thick timber on the other. Presently he asked where Glover had been when she first spied him.

"O, somewhere about there." She indicated the point a few paces from the wood. "I imagine he had just come through the trees and bushes from the upper end and only that moment seen us."

"And the man already here with Mr. Boldre was——?"

"His brother, Derek Boldre. It's he who has now got the estate. It won't interest you, of course, but between ourselves he's going to marry the girl you met just now—Mrs. Tom Boldre's sister."

Again she thought that the inspector was getting wearied of her prattle. His questions sounded absent—probably because it was easy to see just where the corpse had lain, the imprint of Glover's form being fixed in the hardening mud. Soon she left him, pleased that however she had let her tongue run away with her she had said not a word about her private knowledge of the car tracks. Let him find that our for himself—if he could.

To the inspector the labyrinthine tracks were quite decipherable; and yet before long he was swearing to himself. True he had picked out not only the prints of latest occurrence, but the types of tires which had made them; but this done he was stumped. At certain points he found the overlapping obscured by bad slurs which a strong lens and a millimeter rule did not help to clear up.

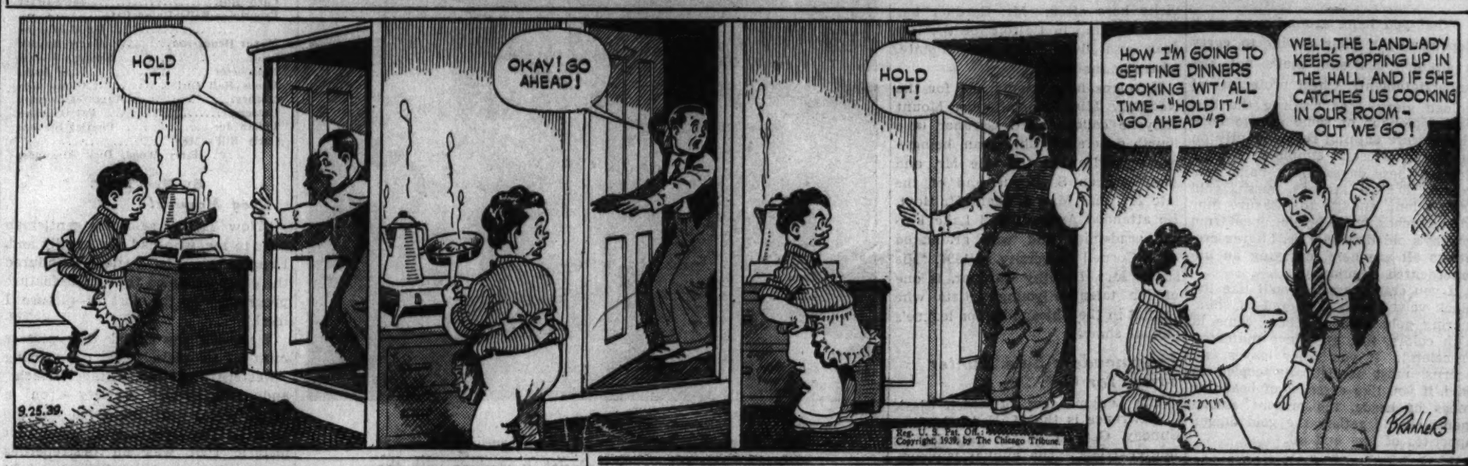
GASOLINE ALLEY—LOOKING AHEAD AND BACKWARD

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: They Need Red and Green Lights



Doting Parents and Friends Stifle Talent

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Poor little girl! She's being killed with kindness—if you can call it by such a name. Surfeited, she is, with attention, solicitude, and attempts at amusement.

Is she happy? Is she a sunny, natural, contented little thing to have around? She is not.

I know a little boy of her type, and another—and another. When they were tiny they were cute and it didn't matter so much. But now they're past the "adorable" age and the effects of being talked to and about and mismanaged are not too pleasant, and are a great wrong to the child.

The cure? Part of it surely is some intelligent, healthful ignoring—not real neglect, but what I call by the name of wholesome neglect. Remember, this is not a withdrawal of interest and unselfish affection; that would shake a child's security; but wholesome neglect.

What "wholesome neglect" does consist of is to:

a. Avoid looking at a child all the time. Just watch yourself and other adults and you will see exactly what I mean if you've never suspected yourself of this habit before.

b. Avoid, above all things, talking about what the child does and says, telling each other or visitors in the child's hearing of her antics, of her bright remarks or her naughtiness.

c. Show real interest in her play, in her achievement with blocks or crayon or dust cloth. But don't keep breaking in on her concentration. And when praise is in order don't make it always personal. It's better to say "That barn you've built for the cows, Susan, looks like a pretty cozy place for them to be in in the winter" than to say "Well, Sue, you are a good builder," because then your interest is chiefly in the result, not in the smartness of the child.

d. Avoid constantly offering entertainment and diversion. This fosters lack of concentration and makes a child exacting. But provide variety in play and, if possible, association with other children. Sometimes where it is not possible to control grownups in the family a few hours a day in a nursery school or kindergarten breaks up the undesirable behavior habits.

Wholesome neglect is spectacularly needed in this one instance: When melodrama is in the air. Dramatic refusals to eat should not produce consternation in the family. "Accidents" in eliminations should not create talk. Tantrums should not draw a circle of observers.

If I seem to you to be exaggerating to a ridiculous degree, I'm not. Small children can play upon their families like a clever actress upon her audience. Calmness, casualness, going serenely about your affairs and persistently doing so [not giving up after one trial] will result eventually in these plays for attention being abandoned.

But all this while remember three things in administering this "wholesome neglect." The three you must remember are: That all these "goings on" of your child to gain the center of the stage are not deliberate, but are unconscious; that you are the guilty one, having brought them about by your lack of wisdom, and that your child must never, as a result of your changed tactic, feel any sense of your being cold or harsh, of your having withdrawn your loviness, nor of lacking the right kind of attention toward herself as a real person whom you respect and consider.

On the House

Here are a few inexpensive ways to brighten up that bathroom: Rub the nickel pipes with a fine steel wool so they'll have a brighter shine . . . substitute new chromium faucets with their attractive white handles for aging, older types . . . install a new towel rack of gleaming glass with chromium fittings . . . cover exposed ends and sides of bathtub which may have a drab look with coats of gloss enamel. . . . And if you have a high, narrow radiator and would like to reduce its apparent height, hang a low wall shelf directly over it. A shelf for decorative toiletries which are important accessories in every well equipped bathroom.

The adage about "R" months and oysters is rather antiquated now that we can get oysters, frozen or canned, the year around, but still the mood for oyster stew or scalloped oysters rarely strikes us "out of season." Perhaps it's just a hangover from the old days, or perhaps oysters really are more satisfying in the cooler "R" months.

Anyway, those months are here, and so are fresh oysters. There will be many social gatherings for "oyster stew" and scalloped oysters among men, women, and mixed groups, so I'm going to give large quantity recipes along with family sized ones.

Oyster Stew.
[Serves four.]
1 pint oysters
3 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 quart scalded milk
Paprika

Pick over oysters, remove pieces of shell, and save liquor. Add oysters to melted butter, season with salt and pepper, and heat gently until oysters begin to curl at the edges. Add hot milk and liquid drained from oysters and heat just to the boiling point. Sprinkle with paprika and serve hot with oyster crackers. Minced parsley may be sprinkled over the stew if desired. Do not allow oysters to boil and do not heat them too long, or they will toughen.

Oyster Stew.
[Serves fifty.]
2½ gallons milk
1¼ pounds butter
1 teaspoon paprika
5 quarts oysters
2 tablespoons salt

Scald the milk and add butter, paprika, and oysters. Cook over low heat until edges of oysters begin to curl. Add salt, stir and serve. If the soup must stand before all is used, oysters should be combined with milk as needed, for they will be tough if heated too long.

A fourth teaspoon of tabasco sauce and a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce sometimes are added to stew made in this quantity, for stronger seasoning.

Scalloped Oysters.
[Serves four.]
1 pint oysters
1½ cups dry bread and cracker crumbs
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup oyster liquor and top milk
Salt, pepper

Mix crumbs with butter. Line greased casserole with a third of the crumbs. Add half the oysters, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and cover with another layer of crumbs. Add the rest of the oysters, sprinkle again with salt and pepper, and top with remainder of crumbs. Pour oyster liquor and top milk over the casserole, cover, and bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees, uncovering during the last 10 minutes to brown the dish.

Scalloped Oysters.
[Serves fifty.]
3 quarts cracker crumbs
1 pound butter, melted
4 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
6 quarts oysters
1 quart milk or light cream
1½ pints oyster liquor [add water to make up amount, if necessary]

Mix crumbs, butter, and seasonings. Spread a third of the mixture over the bottom of an oiled baking pan, 12 inches by 20 inches. Cover with half the oysters, and repeat, topping with crumb mixture. Pour milk and liquid over the top and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Add 2 cups finely chopped celery to the mixture if desired.

Another of those difficult 11-days. Eleven is the number of inspiration, but in these days when spiritual values have been lost in a wave of materialism the negative 11 brings lack of coöperation with the best instincts of mankind. Keep your thoughts positive.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: As an example of a freak hand which I claim was badly mishandled, I give you the following:

"North, dealer.

NORTH
♠ K Q 8 4
♥ A K 9 8 2

WEST
♠ A J 9 5 3 2
♥ None
♦ K Q J 10 3 2

EAST
♠ 10
♥ Q J 10 7 6 5 3
♦ None
♣ Q J 7 5 2

SOUTH
♦ A 9 7 6 5 4
♣ K 10 6 3

"This hand occurred in a team of four match. At one table the hand was played at two spades by West, was doubled, and set 300 points. At the other table the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 diam.	Double
2 spades	3 hearts	Pass	3 spades
Double	4 clubs	Pass	4 diam.
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

"The four no trump contract was set four tricks, 1,100 points. I happened to be the West player and hold no brief for any bid I made after my partner bid three hearts, but I do claim that my double of South's two diamond bid was not for take-out purposes, and that after North bid two spades my partner should have passed. Had the two spade bid come around to me I would have doubled and from then on North-South would have been in trouble. Perhaps I am wrong, but I would be pleased to know what you think. I claim that my partner's three heart and four club bids showed real strength. Partner claims that she had to bid, as my double was for a take-out and she thought North had opened a psychic heart bid, as he is notorious for making psychic bids.

"N, D, L, Massachusetts."

There is no denying that this deal was a real freak, and it is not to be wondered at that one of the teams got into an awful mess. However, the catastrophe was much greater than it should have been, and the hand presents a splendid moral, which is just this: When a pair finds itself in trouble it should not frantically scurry around, always getting higher and higher, looking for a way out; it should realize almost immediately that there is no way out and should accept its licking.

To take up the specific points involved. West's double of two diamonds was technically a take-out double, but it should have been perfectly apparent to East in this case that West was doubling on diamond strength. East's own void, and the fact that North had run from the two diamond double by bidding two spades, was conclusive evidence that West had both length and strength in the diamonds. But by this I do not mean to imply that East's three heart bid was bad, particularly considering North's reputation for psyching.

East-West were vulnerable. North South were not; if East, by any chance, could make a vulnerable game, presumably it would return more points than any defensive action. Indeed, even if North's heart bid were honest, East easily might be able to make four hearts if she found the spade ace and at least one high club honor in West's hand. But, while there must be question as to the merit of East's bid, there can be none as to West's bidding. The latter was very bad. East, at least, had a semblance of solidity in her heart suit; West, despite his six card length in the spade suit, should have realized that the spade honors would be over him and should not have hoped for even the ten spot in East's hand. Perhaps East should have passed over two spades, but certainly West should have passed over East's three hearts. Since he did not do so, I do not blame East a bit for the four club bid, nor, for that matter, having gone so far, can West be criticized for his four diamonds. The worst of all the bids was the four no trump by West. He should have made the best of a bad bargain and stayed at four diamonds.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There is no scarcity of preparations that transform the bath water into a sea of bubbles, but of all of them we like a rather new one just about best.

This is a powder that turns the water milky white and makes it very silky to the touch; on the top there are bubbles about a foot deep. It comes in six luxurious fragrances. The jasmin and the June geranium are especially lovely. This bath powder is more expensive than most of its predecessors but it is decidedly de luxe.

A milk bath with this preparation should take you about 10 minutes. Lying back, relaxing utterly, is one of the important features of a beautifying bath. It's good for all of us—and when you lie back in water as bubbly as this powder makes it you have the sensation of nestling in a cloud of swansdown.

Women with extremely sensitive skin will like this—the bubbles are alkali free and soap isn't really necessary with this bath. After the bath you can take a shower if you like but the preparation gets in its kindly work toward the dry, sensitive skin if you merely wipe the bubbles off. They're greaseless, of course, and the skin feels satin smooth when you emerge from the tub.

We're told that lots of fond mothers are using this preparation in their children's baths. The youngsters like the bubbles, which are great fun to play with because they can be lifted in handfuls like masses of spun sugar

Ozark Lambs to Market.

This has been a strange day here at Sunrise mountain. Early this morning, amid great excitement, the late spring lambs were loaded in a roaring red truck and sent off to market. We were mighty proud of them . . . they looked so sturdy and handsome as they gayly raced up that ramp into the truck. We envisioned some inspector in St. Louis saying: "Here's a fine flock of lambs, Bill! Where are they from?"

But that was scant comfort when we began to realize that those playful youngsters, all looking so much alike in their woolly coats, but actually so different in character, were gone forever. All day we have been remembering them as those playful spring babies. We are glad now that we didn't yield to last winter's seed catalog inspiration and landscape the west bank of the Big pond. In our memory, we can still hear the pounding of tiny hoofs on that packed bare earth as the lambs played their rowdy evening games. We wonder if they recalled that beloved playground on that last long ride up to St. Louis.

Perhaps Little Al remembered! He was one of the older lambs and a natural born leader. His faintest bleat could send every lamb-baby racing pell mell down the highway, instead of walking demurely through the open gate into the North Forty. We are sorry now that we often wished we could wring his stubborn little neck! We're sorry, too, for scolding Little Tough Guy, the hand-raised lamb with the exasperating habit of bunting his bottle and squirting milk all over his shepherdess' clean smock. Little Tough Guy is gone now . . . he was squeezed into that roaring truck beside quiet little Wib Smart, the lamb named for the art director of a Chicago advertising agency because both possessed the same inordinate fondness for salt. We hope little Wib wasn't thirsty on that long ride!

Gone, too, is Starlight, the lamb born in the corral one warm spring morning just before dawn, when bright stars lighted our Ozark mountain top with a silver radiance. Even Alice's Baby went out in that great red truck, with his bright eyes peering back at us from between the slits in the end gate. Alice, herself, was a bottle-lamb two years ago, and when this, her first baby, was due to arrive, she ran bleating to the garden gate, wildly calling her Humans, the only mother she had ever known. Every day thereafter, in true young-mother fashion, she proudly led her wobbly-legged son close to us, apparently enjoying the extravagant praise we heaped upon him.

When the mail carrier brought today's paper, memory of lambs being driven to slaughter was quickly erased. For it is filled with pictures of boyish soldiers marching off to another war!

—Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm.

Variant.

Phil Morris quotes the young man riding in the back seat on the way to Pike Lake lodge, Wis., who, when the machine skidded to the very edge of a high bluff and the driver whistled in alarm, said: "You ought to be singing, 'When you ravine the ravine'."

Fame.

The theater physician who attended John Barrymore during his recent illness, Dr. Julius Berinstein, drove out to Glencoe, where Barrymore took a house on Bluff street some weeks ago, to see him. He couldn't find the street on his first visit, and he inquired of a woman pedestrian: "Can you tell me where Bluff street is?" She told him that she had lived there a long time but had never heard of Bluff street.

"Whom were you trying to find?" she asked. Dr. Berinstein told her, and she answered immediately:

Those artistic shallow shells [real shells, not imitations] have been used for years as individual casseroles for sea foods. Now there's a new use for them. They make ideal individual servers for tiny appetizers at the cocktail hour. Give one to each guest instead of letting him or her park the tidbits just anywhere.

Or, if you have a round mirror plateau for your dining table, you can make an attractive centerpiece by ringing it round with the shells and filling them with small flowers such as tiny button chrysanthemums, forget-me-nots, pansies, or violets, or sweetheart roses. EDITH WEIGLE.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 24.—The 41st football meeting between the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, favorites in the National league championship race, established a new high in intensity of rivalry today when the Packers fought back from the depths of defeat to triumph, 21 to 16.

Its offense paralyzed by the ineffectual blocking of backs, Green Bay trudged to its dressing room at the half trailing, 13 to 0, leaving 19,192 fans shivering under lowering skies convinced that the game had been decided.

A massive Bear line and the accuracy of Bernie Masterson's passes appeared to be too much for the Packers. But it was a revived team that came charging out of the Packer dressing room at the start of the third period.

Bears Make Two Mistakes.

Two Bear mistakes and the type of blocking expected from players worthy of employment in major league football quickly piled up 21 points. Green Bay carried the kickoff back to its first score, then kept alert to capitalize on the errors of a jittery Bear eleven that had begun to coast.

Cecil Isbell, formerly of Purdue, aroused the crowd when he slipped around the Bears' left end for 12 yards and the first touchdown on the nineteenth play of the period, 19 plays in which the Bears had been kept continually on the defensive and slowly forced back. Three plays later Bill Lee and Milt Gantenbein smothered a Bear fumble on the 11 yard line. This break brought the Packers seven points on Clarke Hinkle's plunge from the one foot line and sent them ahead, 14 to 13.

Fans' hysteria reached its zenith less than three minutes later when a punt bounded out of Dick Schweidler's arms on the 8 yard line, rolled over the Bear goal and became the third Packer touchdown as Tom Greenfield, rookie center from Arizona, recovered the ball. Tiny Engebretsen place kicked the extra point after each touchdown.

18th Victory for Packers.

These three forays brought the Packers their 18th victory in the series, in which the Bears have been triumphant 19 times since 1920 and four games have been tied. They also enabled the Packers to remain undefeated in the National league race. The record attendance predicted for the contest was washed away by a steady rain that fell for more than an hour at noon after the day had dawned bright and sunny. Several times during the first half slight showers inconvenienced spectators. The field, however, remained in good shape for play.

After a scoreless first period the Bears quickly went into a 13 point lead in the second quarter on Bill Osmanski's 16 yard run around the Packers' right end for one touchdown and Masterson's seven yard quarter back sneak for the other. The second was set up by Dick Plasman's block of Arnie Herber's punt. The Bears appeared to be having little or no trouble with the Packers, whose line was playing heroically, but whose backs scarcely came within hailing distance of their men on blocking assignments.

Bears Resume Offensive.

After Schweidler's fumble, the Bears settled down again and resumed their offensive with a semblance of order. Osmanski, who broke up a Bear advance with a fum-

Defends Title

Conn Favored Over Bettina in Title Fight

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—Young Bily Conn, already being built up as a heavyweight hope, defends his light heavyweight championship in Forbes field tomorrow against Melio Bettina, from whom he won the title. The colorful Irish lad was installed a 5 to 3 favorite tonight to whip the southpaw Italian from Beacon, N. Y., in the first defense of the 175 pound honors.

Should he follow form and beat Bettina, he probably will make only one more start in the division, against Gus Lesnevich of Edgewater, N. J., on Nov. 17, in Madison Square Garden. After that he will go to the post with the heavyweights, possibly against Lou Nova, next spring.

Interest Running High.

Interest in tomorrow night's fight is such that the previous Pittsburgh high for a fight, $56,000, for the Teddy Yarosz-Vince Dundee middleweight championship bout some years ago, will probably be beaten. The way things shape up now, some 30,000 will be on hand in the home of the baseball Pirates, and the gate will run between $70,000 and $100,000.

Bettina, a tough, finely conditioned left hander, who won the title after an elimination and then lost it to Conn on a hot night last July, isn't being given much chance in this one. Only one of the experts here for the show thought he had a chance to win.

Conn Has Speed.

Conn, with as fine a left hand as has come down the pike in recent years, and a swishing right which doesn't kill, but can injure, has too much speed for the crowding Bettina. The challenger probably will take an early lead, just as he did in the first fight, but should be slowed down eventually by Conn's speed, and then Conn can come on.

SOX WIN TWO FROM BROWNS; TAKE 3D PLACE

Triumph, 11-9, 4-3, as Indians Lose.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, 2½ games out of third place at noon Saturday, last night found themselves in possession of third by a margin of a full game over the Cleveland Indians.

Yesterday's phase of this meteoric rise was the taking of another doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns.

The Sox won the first game, 11 to 9, and squirmed to a 4 to 3 victory in the 4½ inning second game, which was called by darkness. While this was transpiring, the Indians were losing twice to the Tigers.

Brown Breaks Record.

It was the Sox's 16th victory over the Browns in 18 games played. Thornton Lee, though relieved by Clint Brown, registered his 15th victory in the first game and Jack Knott rang up his tenth victory in the bobtailed encounter. Neither turned in his standard performance, though each had streaks of excellence.

Brown, in a wabbly effort to relieve Lee, tied the major league record for relief pitching. It was the 59th game in which Brown has appeared as a reliever, tying a record set by Garland Braxton for Washington in 1927.

The Sox had no anxiety in the first game until the Browns made four runs off Brown in the ninth inning. They made four runs in the first inning, and from the... till the ninth proceeded with assurance.

Sox Stagger Through.

The second game was a nervous affair, with darkness a factor from the start. The Sox made only two hits, both singles off Bill Cox, but got four runs in the fourth inning. Then, with the game sure to be called at the end of the Brownie fifth, Knott staggered. The Browns made three runs and had the tying counter on second when the game ended.

FIRST GAME

The White Sox ripped into Bob Harris after two were out in the first inning. Kreevich walked and stole second and Appling walked. Then came the aforesaid ripping into Harris, who had to give way to Howard Mills before the inning was over. Successive singles by McNair, Walker, Rosenthal, and Tresh produced four runs.

In the fifth Laabs drew a pass to become the first St. Louis base runner. Then Gallagher doubled for the first hit off Lee, putting Laabs on third. Laabs scored on an infield out.

In their portion of the fifth the Sox scored three runs. Appling and McNair singled and, after Walker had fanned, Rosenthal drew a pass. Tresh beat out a single to Gryska, who made a nice pickup, but in trying a Fancy Dan toss to second threw into right field. Appling scored on Tresh's hit and McNair and Rosenthal followed him home on the error.

Lee Jostled Around.

Lee, who had allowed only seven hits in his last two full games, yielded five hits in the sixth inning. Solters batted for Mills and walked, then singles by Heffner, Hoag, Laabs, Clift, and Gallagher produced three runs.

Bob Muncrief was the Browns' pitcher at the start of the sixth. A single by Kuhel, a double by Kreevich, and a pass to Appling loaded the bases. McNair then singled to left, scoring Kuhel and Kreevich. Walker struck out again, but Rosenthal was given an intentional pass. Appling scored on Tresh's sacrifice pop-up to Shortstop Gryska. Lee's single scored McNair.

Brown Relieves Lee.

Clift opened the eighth with his 15th homer. Gallagher beat out a bunt, then Lee fanned Harshany and

What Fruit?

What bitterness within the vanquished breast
Will smoulder all throughout the coming years!
Upon a ground besoaked with blood and tears
The conquered, still unconquered, find no rest.
There will be waiting, but the hate suppressed
Will long outlast the strutting victors' cheers,
Subdued when semblance of a peace appears;
A waiting, till the land again is dressed
In still-recurring tide of blooming youth,
Late cradled in maternal arms, against
Of coming sacrifice is dimly sensed.
The festered wound abides its time; no peace

Defeat Drops Chicago to Fourth Place.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 24.—The Cardinals' struggle against huge odds to overtake the Cincinnati Reds in the waning days of the National league race continues. This afternoon, despite the story told by the scoreboard of another Cincinnati triumph, the Gas House Gang again swept the Cubs aside, 9 to 1, to remain three and one-half games behind the leaders. The Cards thus kept the flag argument wide open for a crucial four game series starting in Cincinnati with a double-header Tuesday. The Cards' success today was their seventh straight.

The Cubs didn't mourn because they weren't able to crush the Cards' pennant hopes for keeps, but they did care about what the defeat meant to them financially. It sent them tumbling into fourth place behind the Brooklyn Dodgers. And it all happened because Claude Passeau was just a wisp of straw in front of the Cardinal avalanche and because the Cubs were as helpless as tin soldiers before the southpawing of Max Lanier.

Passeau Loses 13th.

Passeau's 13th defeat loomed in the second when he yielded a couple of homers. The Cards slashed him for another pair of runs in the third, helped somewhat by somersaulting in the outfield. The second placers added another run in the fifth and another in the seventh which marked Passeau's finish. Not satisfied with this, the Gas House Gang laid into Earl Whitehill in the eighth and stirred up such a torrent of trouble that two more pitchers were summoned.

The Cubs collected half of their four hits before anybody was retired in the first inning but thereafter they saw practically nothing of the baselines. One man reached base on an error, the only survivor after the first and until the eighth. Then two reached base in the eighth and another in the ninth.

Young Biker Scores Upset in Elgin Race

An 18 year old Chicago bicycle rider, Art Fisera of 1910 West Crystal street, won the Elgin to Chicago race yesterday. It was the first time that young Fisera had ridden in a race.

Fisera covered the distance, lengthened to 67 miles due to a last minute change in the route, in 2 hours 42 minutes and 38 seconds. The upsetter of champions sprinted over the finishing line a quarter of a mile ahead of Jack Boyles of the Edison Park Wheelmen club, who was second. Gunther Lueshen, also of Edison park, was third.

Fisera, like Boyle and Lueshen, had been given the limit handicap of 21 minutes. The champions in the big field started from Elgin without the benefit of a handicap.

Uses Two Spare Bicycles.

Due to two flat tires en route, Fisera changed bicycles twice. His brother drove in a car with the spare bikes.

Young Fisera had planned his strategy to win this race and was prepared for any mishaps. Many of his competitiors were eliminated because of tire trouble, but there were no accidents. The throng that saw the race was estimated by police at 250,000. Crowds lined the curbs along the route and the streets were jammed for miles in the home stretch and at the finish, 21st and Damen avenue. Large details of police kept the course clear.

Although Fisera won, the best time was turned in by Scratchman Bob Kaergard of the C. Y. O., 2 hours 31 minutes and 48 seconds. Second in this group was Randy Wilkin of the Descamps C. C., while Harvey Spieglehoff of Milwaukee was third.

Work Strengthens Legs.

Fisera works as an order filler for a wholesale company. He said the leg work involved in his job had helped him get in shape for the race. The results:

CHAMPIONSHIP RACE—Won by Art Fisera; Jack Boyles, second; Gunther Lueshen, third; Herbert Krupp, fourth; Dan Hyerdall, fifth; Cris Klem, sixth; Charles Shannon, seventh; Charles Edwards, eighth; Robert Jackson, ninth; Bob Daly, tenth. Time, 2:42:38.

TIME LIMIT WINNERS—Won by Bob Kaergard; Randy Wilkin, second; Harvey Spieglehoff, third; Erwin Pesek, fourth; Lawrence Steel, fifth; Fred Pesek, sixth; Bill Bina, seventh; Sear Taylor, eighth. Time, 2:31:48.

ROCHESTER WINS TITLE; DEFEATS NEWARK, 2 TO 1

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP).—Rochester Red Wings won the International league Governor's cup playoffs today by defeating the Newark Bears, 2 to 1, in the seventh and deciding game of the series before an overflow crowd of 16,000.

Harry Davis hit a pop single with the bases full in the last of the ninth, breaking the 1 to 1 tie.

Rochester will open the little world series here Tuesday night, meeting the Louisville Colonels of the American association, who ousted Indianapolis in the playoffs.

Derringer Pitches 11-2 Victory.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 24 (AP).—Pie Traynor's Pirates staged a pitcher's relay race before the Cincinnati Reds today and the league leaders added up 11 walks, a hit batter, and six safeties for an 11 to 2 victory and a sweep of the five game series. It was Paul Derringer's ninth straight victory and his 24th of the year.

The Reds protected their 3½ game lead, and got set for the St. Louis Cardinals, who open a four game war here Tuesday. The Reds now have won 16 of their last 20 and seven in a row.

Johnny Gee Blows Up.

For about two innings Johnny Gee looked almost as good as Derringer. The Pirate rookie, 6 feet 9 inches tall, suddenly lost the range, however, and nobody found it after that.

Gee walked Billy Myers to open the Reds' third. Derringer sacrificed. Bill Werber grounded out, Myers taking third. Then Frey, Vince DiMaggio, and Frank McCormick all walked, and a run was in. Ernie Lombardi doubled and three more runs came in. Harry Craft doubled off the left field wall and Lombardi scored. Wally Berger batted in the sixth run with a single to left. Billy Myers, up for the second time in the inning, grounded out.

In the eighth Clemensen hit Lombardi with a pitched ball. Craft followed with a single and Berger and Myers walked, forcing in Lombardi. Derringer hit a sacrifice fly to bring in Craft and Werber and Frey walked to bring in Berger.

DiMaggio Gets Double.

Vince DiMaggio's first hit as a Red was a double to left for the fourth and fifth runs. McCormick flied out. DiMaggio played right for Ival Goodman, who had a cold and a stiff neck. Lonnie Frey retired in the late innings for a rest.

The Pirates got their two runs on Van Robays' homer in the fourth and singles by Gustine and Paul Waner and an infield out in the seventh.

PIRATES TO FIRE TRAYNOR; HIRE FRISCH, REPORT

Pittsburgh, Pa. Sept. 24 [Special].—The management of the Pittsburgh Pirates in quest of an aggressive leader, has selected Frank Frisch to manage them in 1940, it was learned authentically here today. Official announcement that Frisch will succeed Harold [Pie] Traynor as team pilot will be made shortly after the 1939 season ends, it was said.

—If—

The Cincinnati Reds can clinch the pennant by splitting even in their four game series with the St. Louis Cardinals, starting tomorrow in Cincinnati with a double header. In that event, the Reds could lose their three remaining games with the Pirates and, if the Cardinals won their three from the Cubs, the final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	94	59	.614

If the Cardinals win three of the four games, the Reds still could lose one of their three with the Pirates and finish in front, granting that the Cardinals win all three from the Cubs. In that case the final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cincinnati	96	58	.623
St. Louis	95	58	.621

Should the Cardinals sweep the four game series with the Reds, they would lead by half a game and could clinch the pennant by winning their three games with the Cubs. With Cincinnati also winning its last three games from Pittsburgh, the final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	96	57	.627
Cincinnati	96	58	.623

The race cannot end in a tie because St. Louis has one less game to play, owing to a cancellation.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23 [Special].—Marshall Goldberg today came back to the city where he won college football fame and helped the Chicago Cardinals defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 0, in a National Professional Football league game. The former Pitt star romped over with his team's only touchdown. The field goal was kicked by Regis Monahan, formerly of Ohio State.

A crowd of 19,008 saw the game which resulted in the Cardinals' first victory of the season.

Score Follows Fumble.

Nardi returned the opening kickoff 15 yards to the Pirate 30 yard line. On the first play from scrimmage Francis fumbled and Deskin recovered for Chicago on the 30. Goldberg went around right end to the Pirate 14 yard line. After Agee failed to make a first down on three cracks at the line, Goldberg raced around right end to score and Monahan kicked the extra point.

At the start of the fourth quarter Robbins went twelve yards on two tries at right end, being tackled on the Pirates' 44 yard line. Parker and Robbins made first down on the 36 yard line. Robbins then passed to Mason for five yards. A five yard offside penalty set the Cardinals back to the 36 yard line. Robbins' pass on third down was short of first down. Monahan then kicked a field goal from the 32 yard line, with Popovich holding.

Cardinals Attack Halted.

After the kickoff Francis' fumble was recovered by Deskin on the Pirate 33 yard line. Robbins passed to Mason to the Pirate 9 yard line, but the attack bogged down and the Pirates took the ball on the 4 yard line.

After Johnson kicked out to the 38 yard line, the Cardinals fumbled and Niccolai recovered on the 42 yard line. The Pirates' last desperate passing attack was stopped on the 9 yard line by the gun.

SMILIN' JACK—THE LIGHT IN THE DARK

Packers Whip Bears, 21 to 16, in Third Period

ble the first time he attempted to carry the ball, but recovered to be one of the stars of the game, brought the kickoff back 29 yards. Three plays, two of them passes, Masterson to Plasman, for 17 and 19 yards, respectively, and Osmanski's 11 yard run brought three first downs and a total of 37 yards. The drive bogged down, however, when two passes went astray and Osmanski was dumped for a six yard loss on the first play of the last period. Jack Manders was called forth on fourth down and place kicked from the 38 yard line to make the score 21 to 16. There it remained, with play even throughout the remainder of the game.

It was a typical Packer-Bear struggle, with George Musso and Russ Letlow, rival guards, being ejected for fighting as early as the second period. The intense rivalry led to frequent altercations with officials, and on nearly every play some gladiator arose limping, a victim of an especially hard tackle or block. The Bears were greatly upset over Referee Bobie Cahn's refusal to allow Joe Maniaci's point after touchdown on Masterson's score. The ball missed the upright by inches.

Green Bay Heroes in Line.

Green Bay's heroes came from the line, where Engebretsen, a veteran of seven seasons in professional football, Greenfield, and Buford Ray, towering tackle, set the pace for two sets of forwards, who played the massive Bear line on even terms most of the way. Plasman, however, was the outstanding player on the field, and, with Osmanski, Pete Bausch, and Russ Thompson, upheld the Bears' right to be classed a favorite in the title race.

The Bears' first touchdown was the result of a sixty-five yard march accomplished in nine plays, chief among which were Masterson's twenty-nine yard pass to Eggs Manske and his sixteen yard toss to Plasman. Their second was due to the combination of Plasman's superb play and the Packer backs' poor blocking.

Green Bay Marches.

Green Bay's first score likewise was the result of a protracted march. It began with Hinkle's twenty-nine yard return of the second half kickoff. Isbell added eight around the Bears' right end. Hinkle then spun through center for one and made it first down with a seven yard dash inside the Bears' right tackle. With first down on the Packers' 45 yard line, Isbell spun over center for a yard, then passed twelve yards to Don Hutson. A Bear offside helped but the gain was nullified two plays later when the Packers were penalized fifteen yards for holding.

The Bears forced the Packers to punt, but were offside, making it first down for the Packers, who celebrated with a fifteen yard pass, Herber to Hutson. Hinkle hit the line for four yards and Herber passed to Gantenbein for eleven to put the ball on the 12 yard line.

Isbell Keeps Running.

Hinkle failed to gain outside right tackle, but Isbell had only to run hard and keep running around the Bears' left end to the goal line, where he was tackled by Danny Fortmann as he scored.

The second Packer touchdown resulted from a fumbled lateral pass in the Bear back field when Masterson tossed to Maniaci on the same maneuver which had sent Osmanski away for the opening score of the game. Lee and Gantenbein were right there to recover the ball. Uram could make only two yards and a Herber to Hutson pass was incomplete in the end zone. On third down Herber fired another pass, this time to Gantenbein, who wound up under a batch of Bears on the 1 foot line. Hinkle's first plunge failed but he went over on the second.

Mexico, Aron Meet Tonight in Ten Rounds

Midget Mexico, Dallas, Tex., welterweight, who also is known as Brescia Garcia and Bricio Garcia, will meet Milt Aron in a ten round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. But whether he fights as Mexico or Garcia won't make much difference to Aron, who has announced he is determined to score a knockout.

The reason for Aron's determination to win is his anticipation of a title bout with Champion Henry Armstrong next January.

In the eight round semi-final Johnny Barbara, South Bend, Ind., welterweight, will meet Tommy Pallatin, also of South Bend.

Frankie Agnes, west side lightweight, who upset Billy Seward last Monday, will appear in a four round preliminary event against Kid Leva. In additional matches at this distance Jimmy Denver is paired with Harry Fredricksen, and Andy Canal with Joe Ojilda.

Jack Dempsey and his two children stopped off in the loop yesterday en route to Salt Lake City, Utah, to see the former champion's mother. . . . The Illinois boxing commission will hold a meeting this afternoon. . . . Max Baer will referee a wrestling bout in Tulsa, Okla., tonight. . . . Johnny Paycheck, 1933 Chicago Golden Gloves heavyweight title holder, is in St. Paul, where he boxes Arne Anderson Friday.

Joe Louis to Wait a Year Before Defending Title

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and his wife, the former Marva Trotter, celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary at a party in a south side café last night.

Among those at the sumptuous reception were Julian Black, co-manager with John Roxborough of Louis, and Carl Nelson, the champion's bodyguard. Jack Blackburn, the Brown Bomber's trainer, was not present because of illness.

Louis' successful title defense against Bob Pastor in Detroit last Wednesday also was observed. It was Joe's eighth championship success and the $118,400 purse increased his five year ring earnings to $1,551,322.

During the festivities Louis revealed that he will not put his title on the block again for one year. This program would eliminate a proposed match with Tony Galento next June.

"It is the first real vacation Joe will have had since our marriage," Mrs. Louis said.

Shortly after his arrival from Detroit yesterday morning Louis went to Palos park, where he spent the day playing golf.

The Louis' were married in New York Sept. 24, 1935, two and a half hours before Joe knocked out Max Baer.

Before his marriage Joe had earned $71,642. Since then his earnings have totaled $1,479,680, including the $217,000 he collected for the Baer conquest. This year's income is $300,688 for four contests. He retains 50 per cent of what he makes after expenses are deducted.

Most of Louis' money is invested in annuities and realty. He owns the apartment building in which he lives at 4320-22 South Michigan avenue, has an apartment building in New York's Harlem district, a farm near Wayne, Mich., and a place in Stevensville, Mich., which he uses for outdoor training purposes.

MISS CANADA III. WINS PRESIDENT'S GOLD CUP RACE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Miss Canada III. from Toronto, Ont., today won the 13th annual president's cup regatta gold cup race, leaving the lone American boat, Notre Dame, far behind. Miss Canada placed first and second yesterday and first today in the three heat race.

The Canadian boat, piloted by Harold Wilson, Toronto university student, and son of the owner, won the final heat by a quarter mile. Notre Dame was never in the race.

Miss Canada's best average speed was 64.668 miles an hour in today's heat. Her fastest lap was also in today's heat—the third, when she sped over the Potomac at 67.872 miles an hour.

Aiden Hayes, St. Petersburg, Fla., by winning today's final heat clinched the 91 cubic hydroplane race with a total of 700 points. Arno Apel of Atlantic City, N. J., driving the swift blue hulled Gen. VI., ran away with the class K inboard open race with a speed of 54.087 miles an hour. Mrs. Joseph J. Taggart, Canton, O., won the ladies free for all in the Tomy-ann. Her speed was 51.903 miles per hour.

Gryska. Glenn batted for Gill and singled to center. When Lee walked Heffner, Brown replaced Lee. Hoag popped to Kuhel.

McQuinn opened the ninth with a triple and scored on Laabs' infield single. Clift struck out, but errors by Walker and Bejma and some hitting by Gallagher and Grace gave the Brownies four runs for the ninth.

SECOND GAME

The Sox scored their first run in the fourth inning of the second game before they made their first hit. Kuhel and Kreevich walked, then put over a double steal. Appling grounded to Neighbors, playing in, but Kuhel slid under the throw to the plate. McNair singled to left for the first Chicago hit, Kreevich scoring. Walker bounced out to Neighbors. Rosenthal was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Tresh lined a single to left center, scoring Appling and McNair. Knott and Bejma supplied infield outs.

Browns Get Rough.

With one out in the fifth, Gallagher singled to center and scored on Glenn's triple to center. Laabs batted for Neighbors and singled to left, scoring Glenn. Harshany batted for Cox and singled to left, Laabs taking third. Christman ran for Harshany. Lucadello's sacrifice fly scored Laabs, and Christman reached second with the potential tying run when Knott loosed a wild pitch. Sullivan then popped to McNair and the game was called on account of darkness.

The Sox and Browns will play a single game in Comiskey park this afternoon. Ted Lyons will pitch for the Sox, opposed by Roxie Lawson.

Tomorrow will be a day off for the Sox, printed schedules notwithstanding. The scheduled game was moved back for the afternoon-night double-header Wednesday against the Indians.

The starting pitchers in the second game yesterday, Jack Knott and Bill Cox, were traded for each other a year ago last June 11.

Today will be celebrated as "Comrade Dykes' day," by Pennsylvania Legionnaires. Jimmy, only Legionnaire among major league players on the active list, will play an inning or so at the specific request of his buddies.

BOSTWICK BEATS GREENTREE, 8-7; WINS POLO TITLE

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP).—Bostwick Field won the national open polo championship today by upsetting Greentree, 8 to 7.

Superior team play and hitting combined with a surprising edge in pony speed carried Pete Bostwick's side, which included Robert and Elbridge Gerry and Eric Tyrrell-Martin, to its surprising triumph over Greentree, led by Thomas Hitchcock Jr.

Robert and Elbridge Gerry, riding at the No. 2 and No. 3, played unusually fast polo in the middle of the Bostwick team and were instrumental in blocking off much of the attack of Hitchcock and Bob Skene, the Australian star.

The passing of Bostwick Field was brilliant and with their edge in pace, Hitchcock and his riders continually were forced on the defensive. Elbridge Gerry was the leading scorer for the winners with four goals. Lineups:

Giants Split with Boston; West Is Hurt

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Giants and the Boston Bees divided a double header today, New York taking the first, 5 to 4, and losing the second, 5 to 3, when the Bees scored three runs in the fifth shortly before darkness halted play. Rookie Johnny Wittig, pitching for the Giants, hit Max West on the head with a pitched ball in the first inning of the second game and the Boston outfielder was taken to a hospital for treatment of a concussion. West was knocked unconscious and had to be carried from the field.

Bird Trap Nabs 'Possum

THE "epidemic" of opossums on the Du Page county farm which has resulted in 13 of these animals being caught in live possum traps finally has reached the farm bird banding operations. For several weeks the boys who look after the young birds on the farm have been trapping opossums which came out of the woods, entered the game bird yard where the young partridges and quail are being kept, and then ended their outdoor careers by walking into baited traps. This week the 13th possum was caught in this manner.

Then came a surprise! We had no idea that the wire bird traps which are in the woods near the large pond would bag a night prowling possum. But our guess was wrong, for this week we were surprised to find one of these animals curled up in a large bird trap.

Apples Entice Him In.

Apparently the half decayed apples and bread that had been placed in the trap were too much of a temptation for Mr. Possum. The capture of this animal brought the total score to 14 for this season. Many of the opossums taken in the live traps this fall are going to find a happy home at the Brookfield zoo where they won't have to worry about hunting food or running into wire traps the rest of their lives.

We didn't realize how thoroughly the recent dry, hot weather has dried up the corn until we walked through one of the fields. Each leaf on the stalks was so devoid of moisture that it crackled like stiff paper. The entire field looked as if a severe frost had struck it and killed every plant in it.

When we walked through the corn field we checked many of the plants to determine the extent of damage due to the raids of birds and squirrels. We found scores of corn ears ruined, especially on stalks growing near the edge of the field where the squirrels naturally would strike first.

Insect Pests Gain.

The arid spell has increased insect pests not only on the Du Page county farm but on others in the middle west. Wheat, shelled corn, and other grains in bins on the farm have been hit by an infestation which kept several of the men busy this week. It was necessary to get into the bins and fumigate with carbon di-sulphide, a vile smelling liquid which gives off a gas that is death to insects of all kinds.

Baiting the bird traps on the farm with bread, apples, and other foods besides grain is beginning to bring results. The first visitor to be attracted by the new menu was a vesper sparrow. [We hadn't seen one of these birds in the traps since June 16th.] But the prize of the week was a pair of tufted titmice. They were caught in a four-celled trap placed on a fence north of one of the farm ponds. These birds were given bands numbered 184505 and 197891 and then released.

Perky, Little Fellow.

The titmouse is an active, jaunty little bird with an erect crest on its head. It frequents groves and woodlands, is quite friendly, comes fearlessly to feeding stations, and is considered one of our most beneficial species. Although many bird lovers west and south west of Chicago reported the presence of these birds near feeding stations last winter, this is the first time that we have seen a titmouse on the Du Page county farm. This species does not migrate like the bobolinks, warblers, and other species which go far south each winter.

BANK SAYS WAR HURTS INDUSTRY IN THE LONG RUN

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—The European war has brought American business face to face with a new set of uncertainties, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York said in its monthly survey.

The bank said that, although business has the examples of 1914 to study, the first effects "have contrasted sharply with the experience in 1914, illustrating the wide variations with which history repeats itself and the danger of judging the future too closely by the past."

"The immediate effects on American business," the survey continues, "cannot yet be gauged with any accuracy.

Predicts Ultimate Loss.

"If any general downward reaction in business has taken place in the present instance it is not readily apparent from current reports. While some branches of trade appear to have been adversely affected by the cancelation of foreign orders and the uncertainty of shipping facilities, others have been benefited by unexpected business in other quarters.

"As nearly as can be judged at present, the transition from peace to war seems thus far to have exerted a stimulating rather than a depressing influence on American business as a whole."

Looking at the long term prospect, however, the bank said the ultimate effect of the war will be a loss to all nations.

Says All Will Suffer.

"Whether or not the United States remains neutral, it is certain that a prolonged war will entail a loss of manpower, destruction of property, and industrial disorganization that will inevitably react unfavorably on this country in the long run. Neutrality may mitigate these effects, but it cannot prevent them. In the final analysis, any temporary advantage that American business may gain in world markets as a result of the war will be more than paid for in subsequent losses due to the industrial paralysis and the general impoverishment that must overtake the belligerent nations.

"Equally inevitable will be the financial disorder that is likely to follow in the wake of war. Not a single important currency has escaped the wave of depreciation that swept over the world as a direct result of the staggering costs of the world war.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

CLIMB IN TRADE CALLS RESERVE MONEY INTO USE

Banks Expect Bigger Credit Demand.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Wartime expansion of business has called into use some of the vast money reserves of the United States and moved bankers to prepare for increased credit demands.

Banking figures last week showed business loans increasing with the heavier buying of raw materials and manufactured goods, the seasonal movement of crops to market, and expedited spending for plant improvements.

As far as some banking analysts could judge from the data available, a trend toward larger use of idle money clearly has appeared. For some time before the war business loans were increasing, but in the last few weeks outstanding credit of commercial and farm borrowers have risen faster on the war buying in commodities and accelerated pace of business generally.

Business Loans Increase.

Commercial and farm loans of New York City member banks of the federal reserve system in the last two months have increased nearly $250,000,000 in the most pronounced expansion of bank credit to private borrowers since 1937.

War conditions have turned Wall street thoughts to the possibility of higher money rates in event credit pansion assumes a wider scope. Business demands are based on large scale war orders, either from Europe or from anticipated step-up in armament expenditures in the United States.

So far, however, the credit reservoir in this country, its capacity increased by the great inflow of gold from Europe in recent years, hardly has been touched by the larger borrowing.

Excess Reserves Large.

At the latest figure excess reserves totaled $5,280,000,000—far beyond any attained before the New Deal era of "cheap money." Theoretically, the excess could be pyramided several times in bank loans and investments.

Wall street observers have been unable to detect any strong tendency toward speculative use of idle credit, unless it has been concealed under business loans for carrying larger stocks of raw materials. As in the world war, the main sweep of the buying unloosed by the march of German troops into Poland was felt in the commodity markets.

Borrowings by stock exchange firms for carrying securities seem to have increased little on the war rise in stocks.

MARITIME BOARD HOLDS TO PLANS FOR MORE SHIPS

Says It's Unconcerned Over Neutrality Act.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Professing no concern that neutrality law changes might lessen the need for American ships, officials said today the Maritime commission intended to continue its building program at the present rate.

The neutrality bill drafted by a senate foreign relations subcommittee includes a prohibition against American ships carrying any goods to belligerents.

However, commission officials said they were convinced that increasing trade with neutral countries would provide a demand for most if not all of the ships forced from commerce in the war zones.

Sees Need for Fast Ships.

"Obviously there will be a need for new and faster ships such as the commission is ordering," one official said.

"American flagships now are carrying only about 30 per cent of this country's foreign commerce. With the withdrawal from ordinary commerce of the ships of warring nations, there will be greater need for American ships to serve neutral countries."

The commission recently stepped up its building program. It has ordered a total of 125 ships in a two year period.

Calls for 50 Vessels a Year.

The commission's program calls for 50 ships a year for the next 10 years.

Some persons close to the commission predicted today that it would order at least 25 more vessels before the end of the year.

Approximately 300 American flagships now sail the various foreign trade routes. Nearly 200 of these operate in the North and South Atlantic, trading with neutral countries.

ZENITH PROFITS DROP; WAR SPURRING SALES OF SHORT WAVE SETS

Zenith Radio corporation yesterday reported operating profits of $29,321 for the three months ended with July, before federal taxes but after other charges, compared with $124,806 a year ago.

Eugene F. McDonald Jr., the company's president, said some of the orders placed in June still are unfilled because the extreme humidity of July and August interfered with final testing and inspection of radio receivers and this resulted in curtailed production.

He said most of the orders placed at a convention last week were for short wave sets. He construed this as an indication of the interest in the European war.

McDonald reaffimed the corporation's stand against the public sale of television apparatus at this stage of its development. All producers combined sold only twenty-two television sets to dealers in the eight weeks ended Sept. 8, he said.

FEDERAL POTASH BEARING LANDS WILL BE LEASED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—With the war threatening to shut off European sources of potash, the interior department has decided to open 6,340 acres of potash bearing government land to private development.

Fred W. Johnson, land commissioner, announced today that a public auction would be held at Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 19, on lease of a tract of potash land near Truno, Cal. The successful bidders will be required to invest $750,000 in the project.

Government experts estimated that these new operations, supplementing the present 534,945 ton domestic output, would produce a supply of potash sufficient to meet all present domestic demands. About 33 per cent of the potash used for agricultural and chemical purposes has been coming from Germany, Spain, and other countries.

FLORIDA SUGAR COMPANY HAS LARGER PROFIT

The United States Sugar corporation, which operates large refineries and plantations in Florida, yesterday reported increased earnings for the year ended June 30. Net profit was $798,841, equivalent to 50 cents a share on common stock, against $621,688, or 39 cents a share, in the preceding fiscal period.

Production of 85,663 tons was the largest since the corporation was established eight years ago, according to Clarence R. Bitting, president. The crop was produced at a cost of $40.69 a ton, the lowest unit cost in the corporation's experience.

MONOPOLY STUDY OF OIL INDUSTRY TO OPEN TODAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The national economic committee will resume its monopoly investigation tomorrow with an examination into the operations of the petroleum industry.

Under a new plan of taking testimony the committee will permit the industry to present its own evidence. Marketing, production, and transportation officials have prepared extensive data which will be submitted by the industry's own representatives.

MUNITIONS.

I understand that some of the railroad equipment companies are in a position to manufacture munitions. Can you tell me what equipment companies went into this business in the last war?—J. M.

Answer: The following railroad equipment companies, among others, did an extensive munitions manufacturing business during the world war:

American Car and Foundry company, which devoted more than 45 per cent of its capacity to armament manufacture during the first years of the war. The company manufactured shells, caissons, supply wagons, and other war equipment.

Baldwin Locomotive works, which made armaments of all types. Since 1918 Baldwin has acquired control of Midvale company, which is currently manufacturing armor plate and gun forgings for the United States.

Pressed Steel Car company, which made shell forgings.

We will send individual reports on these companies to those who request such reports.

MAVIS BOTTLING.

I have some stock of Mavis Bottling company. Is it worth anything?—P. S.

Answer: No. On Oct. 23, 1936, an order was issued by the United States District court at Wilmington, Del., to liquidate the assets of Mavis Bottling company. The company was insolvent. Its stock has no value.

"NEAR MONTH."

What is the meaning of the term "near month" when referring to trading in commodity futures?—D. I.

Answer: "Near month" refers to that trading month which is closest to the current month. For example, futures trading in soy beans is now being conducted for soy beans of October, December, and May, 1940, delivery. October is the "near month."

Corn Harvest Begun; Earliest in Crop Annals

Harvesting of the new corn crop is under way at a record early date in the main producing area. Small lots of new grain were received at terminal markets last week, showing an unusually low moisture content.

A fairly liberal movement of both new and old corn to market is expected to be under way next month. Cribbing is expected to start in Iowa this week.

Yields of corn per acre in the states of largest production will establish a new record this year, it is estimated. This is said to be due in large part to the extensive use of the hybrid variety of corn.

Hybrid Corn Predominates.

About 77 per cent of the Iowa and 69 per cent of the Illinois corn acreage was planted to the hybrid variety this season, the department of agriculture estimates.

An average yield of 50 bushels of corn per acre is anticipated in Indiana this year, or 5 bushels in excess of the previous record. Indicated yield of corn in bushels per acre in leading states as estimated by the department of agriculture follows:

TRUCK FREIGHT VOLUME RISES TO 2 YEAR PEAK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The American Trucking associations reported today that freight movement by motor carriers during August reached the highest level since records were started in 1937.

The 1,007,851 tons moved was 17.8 per cent more than carried in July and 24.7 per cent over the figure for August, 1938, the report said.

Chicago consumers who bought merchandise on charge accounts in 1938 paid for their purchases more rapidly than in 1937, according to the annual survey of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce made public yesterday. Retailers had smaller losses on bad debts than in 1937.

Chicagoans had fully paid for their charge account merchandise within an average of 55.7 days, showing improvement over the national average of 63.4 days, according to George C. Payne, Chicago district manager of the bureau.

'WAR NOT OURS, KEEP OUT,' BANK LEADER URGES

Benson Tells Views as A. B. A. Meets.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24 [Special].—Philip A. Benson, president of the American Bankers' association, said today the United States should take no part in European quarrels. The country, he said, can make the greatest contribution to civilization by maintaining a strictly neutral position.

Philip A. Benson.

"It is essential," Benson declared, "that we maintain sound judgment on international matters and guard against the danger of being swept from our neutral position by a wave of hysteria."

America has had no part in the war and should have none, the banking leader said.

The events in Europe should have a healthful political effect in this country, he said, adding that the political movements of socialism and communism that had made headway in America have now been effectively deflated.

Sees Return to Old Ideals.

"We can profit by this," he said. "These philosophies have been shown up in their true light, and that should hasten us on our return to our traditional political ideals.

"I believe sentiment for government regulation and control of business has been ebbing for some time. That trend should now be speeded up."

Benson told his views in a statement made on the eve of the opening of the annual convention of the bankers association here tomorrow. Benson will retire Thursday as A. B. A. president. He will be succeeded by Robert M. Hanes, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company of Winston-Salem, N. C., who is now first vice president of the association.

Registration of delegates today passed 2,100 and it is expected that several hundred more will be registered by the time of the formal opening tomorrow.

Tells Industry's Problem.

Should the existing arms embargo be repealed, Benson told reporters, manufacturers and other suppliers will face the responsibility of guarding against reckless expansion of their plants, because the immediate profits may not compensate for the ultimate losses that such expansion may involve.

"More important than any immediate profits that we may get from the European war is the adherence to a policy that will assure our own neutrality," he asserted.

Benson said it would be inappropriate for him as president of the A. B. A. to give his own view on the arms embargo repeal propos

STEEL CONCERNS SPEND BIG SUMS TO RENEW PLANT

Steel companies are spending large sums of money to recondition equipment, and at the same time orders are being "rationed" out to buyers in order to take care of regular customers, the magazine Steel said yesterday.

The trade publication said higher operating schedules are indicated for the coming weeks, but the industry will have difficulty in pushing the national production rate much higher than 90 per cent of theoretical capacity before 1940.

Production capacity for the remainder of the year is rapidly being absorbed by the flood of domestic business. Little foreign business has actually appeared on the books to date. Some mills are sold out for the remainder of the year on semi-finished steel, and others are booked to capacity on sheets and bars.

Scrap Prices Rise Sharply.

Meanwhile, scrap prices jumped sharply in "the most bullish market since 1917." Steel's scrap composite has climbed 30 per cent since Sept. 1, and last week advanced $2.17 a ton to $20, the highest since August, 1937. Advances on export steel so far this month amount to $15 a ton on semifinished and $6 a ton on sheets. Present demand is predicated on the assumption that higher prices are certain to go into effect next year.

Production last week moved up 5½ points to 79½ per cent of capacity, Steel said. A year ago ingot output was at 46 per cent. Chicago enjoyed the most spectacular advance, with the local operating rate soaring 11½ points to 78½ per cent.

Rail Purchasing Heavy.

Rail buying last week totaled 66,000 tons, including a 50,000 ton purchase by the Pennsylvania railroad. Rail purchases for the month to date total 150,000 tons, and pending business is headed by a proposed 100,000 ton purchase by the Union Pacific.

Freight car builders are swamped with inquiries, Steel said.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

Save the Difference

Commonwealth's rate is less on all loans than the maximum rate permitted by law. You do not have to be an "executive" or have a "special" credit standing to qualify for OUR reduced rate. Commonwealth's monthly rate of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES AND CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THIS SAME RATE. Of course, persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter, or telephone will receive immediate attention.

Can You Set Aside
$1.34 to $1.52 Per Week
FOR A $100 LOAN?

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan, including all charges on a 20 month loan at Personal Finance Company. And we take no wage assignments.

$1.34 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1¼% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than $ to 12% of annual salary or income. Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $1.52 set aside per week takes care of everything now. $100 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note, or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because the great body of employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method.

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers. You may borrow $25 to $300—

On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.
